PANIC FOLLOWED TWO EXPLOSIONS.

Two Women Severely Burned by Gasoline Flames.

HEROIC RESCUE OF A BABY.

ANOTHER TRIED TO THROW HER BABY OUT OF A WINDOW.

Flame in a Lighted Lantern Exploded a Gasoline Tank and the Lives of Six Persons Were Imperiled.

Two explosions in the house at 4010 North Twenty-second street imperiled six lives Monday evening. Two women were severely burned, and the injuries of one of them are serious.

The house is occupied by two families. Oscar Huelsick, his wife and child, live downstairs, and the upper floor is tenanted by Henry W. Boehning, his wife and five children. The explosions occurred in the apartments of the Huelsicks.

Huelsick went home from his work shortly before 6 o'clock. While Mrs. Huelsick was preparing to cook supper he lighted a lantern and went into the basement. Their baby girl, Opal, was playing about the kitchen. When Huelsick returned from the cellar with the lantern, his wife was filling the tank of the gasoline stove. The stove has a so-called safety arrangement by which the tank cannot be filled without detaching it from the stove.

Mrs. Huelsick had removed the tank and was filling it in the kitchen sink. Huelsick left the kitchen door open and set the lantern on a table, about six feet from where Mrs. Huelsick stood.

Without warning there was a puffing sound, and the room was instantly filled with flames. Mrs. Huelsick screamed and rushed to the center of the room. Her dress was in flames. Huelsick ran to his wife's aid and wrapped her clothing around her to smother the flames. He carried her into the adjoining room and closed the door connecting that room with the kitchen.

In their fright they had forgotten all about the baby. After the first excitement they remembered that the child was still in the kitchen. It was a perilous undertaking to rescue it, but Huelsick did not think of the danger. He opened the door and re-entered the kitchen.

The flames were now confined to the corner of the room where they started. The little girl was crouching under a table in the opposite corner. Her father carried her into the middle room and again closed the door.

Meanwhile panic reigned upstairs. Mrs. Boehning heard the scream of Mrs. Huelsick. She ran out on the porch and saw a great shaft of flame pouring from the door of the kitchen downstairs. She became crazed with fright.

Boehning and four of his children were in the yard. Mrs. Boehning caught up her 6-month-old baby and rushed to the window. She called to her husband to catch the child and was about to throw it from the window when he commanded her to stop. Her husband's fierce tones caused her to hesitate and in that instant the baby's life was saved. Boehning, regardless of the flames that played about the rear staircase, bounded up the steps and took the baby from his wife's arms.

Mrs. Boehning darted out of the door and before her husband could detain her ran down the stairs. The steps and banisters were in flames, but Mrs. Boehning ran through the fire and into the back yard. As she ran she tore her burning waist from her back.

After she reached the yard there was a second explosion in the room where the fire started. The flames had eaten their way to the coal oil can. The oil was scattered and the flames burned more fiercely than ever until the Fire Department extinguished them.

Mrs. Boehning is badly burned. When a Post-Dispatch reporter saw her Tuesday morning her face and neck were swathed in bandages. Her right arm is blistered from finger tips to shoulder.

Mrs. Huelsick's hands and arms are burned. Little Opal inhaled some of the smoke, but was not otherwise injured. The only theory advanced to explain the fire is that vapor which arose from the gasoline can was carried by the draught from the open door to the flame of the lantern.

LIVING ON FREE LUNCHES

Reasons Given by a Saloon Keeper's Wife for Applying for a Divorce.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Louisa Belke has applied for an absolute divorce from Frederick Belke, a saloon keeper whose resort is patronized by the wealthiest class of men. Belke's first wife had been dead only two months when late in September he married Mrs. Louisa Huck, a widow.

In her complaint Mrs. Belke alleges that Belke required her to live on the free lunches served in his saloon. She asserts that she has become greatly weakened in body from lack of nourishment. She says her husband made her imbibe mixed drinks that he made, which, she feared, contained poison, as, she claims, he had frequently threatened to get rid of her in this way.

NINE TIMES TO THE ALTAR

Man Under Arrest in Chicago Accused of Duping Nine Women in Illinois and Arkansas.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—W. L. Farnsworth, under arrest here, is accused with having nine wives. The warrant was sworn to by Mrs. Callie P. Bradshaw of 291 Wabash avenue, one of his wives. She and Mrs. Sarah M. Farnsworth of 317 West Madison street, another victim, identified the prisoner as the man who had wooed them to obtain a few hundred dollars, and after marriage had hastened to leave them. Other alleged victims are: Mrs. Louise Bradshaw of 312 Harrison street, Peoria, Ill. and Mrs. Bradford of Little Rock, Ark. At two other weddings, it is alleged, Farnsworth assumed the names of Sterling and Thomas.

WED A MUSIC HALL SINGER.

Sidney Cohn, a Young Business Man of St. Louis.

TO MISS ADA MAY COLLEY.

FAMOUS FOR SINGING SIX NOTES ABOVE HIGH C.

Married After Midnight at Coney Island, With the Groom's Father and Dr. Hart as the Chief Witnesses.

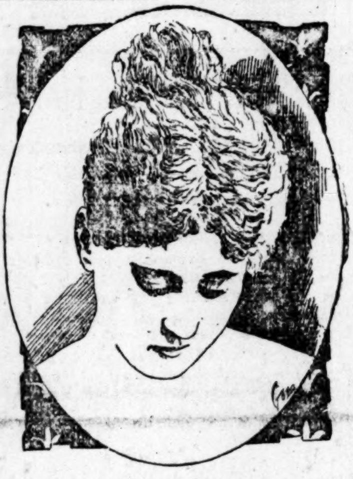
A wedding which has amazed musical and society people in New York and St. Louis is that of Ada May Colley, the London music hall singer, to Sidney Cohn, a wealthy young business man from St. Louis.

The bride, who just finished an engagement at Koster & Bial's in New York last Saturday, is the young woman who has surprised musical artists and critics by singing six notes above high C.

Miss Colley's voice reaches an octave higher than that of Adelina Patti did when the latter was in her prime.

It is a soprano voice, and the D flat, to which she sings it with the ease of a canary trilling forth its morning carol, is a full octave higher than D flat in alto.

D flat in soprano is something so attenuated that the ear can scarcely perceive it. But for the soft, mellow sweetness which Miss Colley understands how to give it, D flat would filter through the ear without leaving more than a vague sensation that something piercingly shrill had struck the sense of hearing.



ADA MAY COLLEY.

The wedding, an unusually romantic affair, was planned Sunday night, and on a sudden impulse the young couple decided to be married immediately. They forthwith sent for the groom's father, Mr. John Cohn, who was in New York City, and also for Dr. A. M. Hart of Bath Beach. Dr. Hart is a brother-in-law of the groom. The quartette got together and late at night journeyed to Coney Island, where the ceremony was performed by Magistrate Nostrand, in the library of his home. He was aroused from his bed for the purpose. The bride gave her age as 21 years. A wedding breakfast was served at 2 a. m. at Dr. Hart's residence, after which the couple left on a trolley car for the Waldorf-Astoria, which will be their home for the next few days.

Miss Colley sang at the Empire in London before she came to this country, a month ago, with her mother and sister. Sidney Cohn and Dr. Stoessel went with Press Agent Donohue to the steamer New York to meet them. Mr. Cohn had heard Miss Colley sing in London and predicted success for her here. He was a frequent caller at the Holland House, New York, while she was stopping there. Sunday they spent the day with Dr. and Mrs. Hart and late Sunday night they decided to marry at once. The engagement was announced two weeks ago.

The bride's mother was not notified until after the ceremony, as she is a Catholic and had opposed the marriage. Mrs. Cohn, it is said, will not sing in public again.

"KEPT COMPANY" 27 YEARS

Finally at Ages of 75 and 70 John Gruver and Mary Sheets Are Married.

PHILLIPSBURG, N. J., Oct. 24.—"I'm just as young as I used to be," so sang John Gruver at his wedding feast yesterday, and he looked it. He is a fine young fellow of 75 years. Mrs. Mary Sheets was the bride. She, like most women, is unwilling to tell her age, but acknowledges that the suns of more than 70 summers have passed over her head. These constant lovers have been "keeping company" for 27 years.

Mr. Gruver has before tasted the sweets of married life. Like his bride, he has grandchildren, and each has a great grandchild. Their descendants for a long time strenuously opposed the union of these fresh young hearts. Finally Mr. Gruver and his sweetheart firmly announced their determination.

"We'll elope," they said.

The idea of a great-grandfather and a great-grandmother scurrying across country to a minister was repellant to those who would have broken off the match. They yielded. Yesterday's event followed. Around the wedding board sat seven children, 20 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

INDIAN HEAD ON NEW BILL

Notable Departure From the Custom of Printing the Portrait of a Statesman.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—A design for a new $5 silver certificate has been selected by the Treasury Department. The most conspicuous feature of the new note will be the departure from the custom of printing the portrait of a distinguished statesman on the face of the bill. In this case the head of an Indian, with feather headdress, will appear in the center of the face of the bill. Since the head of an Indian will be used it will be impracticable for unscrupulous persons to raise the $1 certificate to the $5 denomination. The back of the bill will consist almost entirely of laid work in attractive leaf designs.

THE QUICK OR THE DEAD.

Problem Solved by an Undertaker and a Detective.

JOE TAYLOR'S NOVEL PLAN.

TELEGRAPHED HIS BROTHER THAT HE WAS A CORPSE.

Wanted Money With Which to Bury Himself, but the Brother Sent a a Casket and Funeral Director to St. Louis.

Joseph Taylor, a lithographic artist, and Mrs. M. J. McMillan, his common law wife, resorted to gruesome methods to obtain money. The scheme failed and now the man and woman are being detained by Chief of Detectives Desmond.

Benjamin Westbrook, an undertaker from Dayton, O., came to St. Louis Tuesday morning on orders from Taylor's brother, with the intention of removing Taylor's body to Dayton for burial. He could not find the body and when Detective Killian joined in the search a live body was found. Now Taylor and Mrs. McMillan are in the custody of the police and warrants will be applied for.

H. T. Graefel of 535 Steele avenue, Dayton, O., is a half brother of Taylor's. A few days ago Graefel received this telegram:

> Your brother is dead. Send by telegraph $10. Will bring body home. Waive identification.

The telegram was signed by Mrs. M. J. McMillan. There was no street address.

Mr. Graefel is a personal friend of Undertaker Westbrook. When the telegram was received Graefel went at once to the undertaker. Westbrook told him that $10 would not be sufficient to bring the body back and he suggested that he be sent to take charge of the remains. Graefel acquiesced and said he would accompany the undertaker. Westbrook dissuaded him from doing this, explaining that it was an unnecessary expense. So the undertaker brought a casket with him, and at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday morning he reached Union Station. The casket was left in the baggage room and Westbrook, not knowing where the body was, decided to ask the police.

Chief Desmond assigned Detective Lee Killian to find the dead body. Killian has learned that the injunction to "suspect everyone" is not a bad motto for a detective and he at once said there was a "job" somewhere.

Last July Taylor had written to his brother and at that time he lived at 914 Market street. There the detectives and the undertaker went. Taylor formerly lived there, but he had moved to 1025 Chestnut street. The detectives was told, however, that Taylor had been there only a short while previous, and had asked if anyone had inquired for him. This confirmed the detective's suspicions, and instead of looking for a corpse, he began looking for a live man.

They went to 1025 Chestnut street and on the doorsteps they found a man.

"Who are you looking for?" inquired the man.

"For Joseph Taylor," said Killian.

"That's me," said the man.

"That can't be," said Killian, "for Taylor is dead."

"O, no, I ain't dead; that's just a josh."

"Well, at any rate, what I have is for Mrs. M. J. McMillan. I can't give it to any one else."

"That's all right," said the supposed dead man. "I will take you to her at once," he said eagerly.

The two entered the house and Mrs. McMillan was found. No sooner had she admitted her identity than Killian arrested them and took them in the patrol wagon to the Four Courts, where they were interviewed by Chief Desmond.

Taylor is employed by the Compton Lithograph Co. He is a small man with delicate hands and pale blue eyes. He has a small blonde mustache and all the time he was in the chief's presence he bit it nervously. He admitted sending the telegram to his brother and said he wanted the money. He also admitted that he was not dead. When the chief suggested that he was dead by his own confession and that he must return to Dayton in the coffin that awaited him at Union Station he grinned.

Mrs. McMillan then came to his rescue. She is a big woman, with black hair and black eyes. She says her husband has been dead for seven years and that for six years she has lived with Taylor.

"Don't make him look at the coffin," she said, with much solicitude. "He don't like coffins and the mere mention of one makes him nervous. He did this for me. I wanted the money to go home on. You see, I used to live over in Windsor, Ill., and I just had to have some money. He didn't have it and his brother could give us $10 as well as not. O, I didn't know he was going to do this until now. He wanted to surprise me, I guess."

ANOTHER BATTLE EXPECTED

Mexicans and American Cowboys, Heavily Armed, Are Gathering in Force Near Naco.

NACO, Ariz., Oct. 24.—Another and more deadly combat is momentarily threatened here between American cowboys and Mexicans. The first riot occurred Saturday after a ball game. The Mexicans have sent for troops.

The cowboys, Joe Rhodes and George Marts, are still in jail on the Mexican side, and no hearing has been given them yet. The cowboys are determined to prevent the guards from removing the prisoners from the Naco Jail, as it will mean death to them.

Rurales and Cordados have re-enforced the Mexicans in Naco, and guards from surrounding points have been called to the scene. Col. Kosterlitzky and Gen. Finochio received orders to make a forced march with their commands to Naco.

ANOTHER CONFLICT AT HAND

Natives of Guam Smart Under American Military Rule and Prepare a Rebellion.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—An insurrection is so seriously threatened in Guam that Capt. R. P. Leary, U. S. N., Governor of the island, has sent an urgent request for re-enforcements. The Navy Department has issued orders for augmenting the Guam garrison by a batalion of marines. The several sections of this additional force, 350 men in all, will leave their various stations for San Francisco as soon as possible. They will sail thence for Guam on army transports.

Information as to the details of the trouble in Guam is not obtainable.

CUBAN LOVER'S DOUBLE CRIME.

Killed His Sweetheart and Ended His Own Life.

HE HAD BEEN REJECTED.

THE GIRL'S PARENTS WOULD NOT CONSENT TO MARRIAGE.

Tragedy on the Banks of the Illinois Near Peoria in Which Juan Garcia and Bessie Mahoney Were the Actors.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 24.—Juan Garcia, a Cuban, shot his lover, Bessie Mahoney, and himself near the river above the city. Miss Mahoney died instantly, while he lived for several hours, but died without making any statement.

Garcia came to Peoria about six months ago and found employment as fireman of a switch engine in the Rock Island yards here. He began paying attentions to Miss Mahoney almost immediately upon his arrival in the city, and recently expressed a desire to marry her. The parents of the girl refused to give their consent. Garcia continued to visit the home and last night about 8 o'clock they went out for a walk.

Not returning at a late hour, the parents became alarmed, but were unable to find any trace of them until this morning, when their bodies were found by men passing to work along that road.

The girl was dead, shot three times through the neck and body with a heavy revolver.

Garcia lay not far from the body of the girl with a bullet through his head and the revolver lying near his hand. He lived about two hours after he was found, but was unconscious.

When the young couple left the home last night, the mother objected and the girl replied that he would not bother them any more, as she was going to fix the matter that night so that he would not come back.

Garcia was 27 years of age, born in Cuba and came here from New Mexico. Miss Mahoney was 20 years old and the daughter of a well-known printer and publisher, who has been connected with papers in this city and Lincoln, Neb., in recent years.

THE TRANSVAAL MUST PAY

Ex-President Harrison an Interested Listener to Hicks-Beach's War Tax Plan.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

Copyright, 1899, by the Press Publishing Company.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Ex-President Harrison, accompanied by Ambassador Choate and Henry White, was a deeply interested listener to Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's statement of the war finance in the House of Commons last evening. The policy of ultimately extracting the cost of the war from the South African gold fields, announced in the Post-Dispatch of Oct. 14, was openly avowed by Sir Michael.

This cynical confession of the real object of the war was hailed with loud ironical cheers by the opposition, while the Post-Dispatch correspondent noticed that Gen. Harrison heard the announcement with a grim smile. The ministerial party retorted with counter cheers, knowing that if the British taxpayer escaped taxation for war he will complacently accept its results.

Labouchere sarcastically suggested as the first step toward enforcing payment from the Rand that the gorgeous mansions of the Rand millionaires in Park Lane be "commandeered."

Dillon urged that each should be made to disgorge 500,000 pounds to begin with. Thus this policy for conflicting reasons is approved by all parties and even the Rand magnates confess their readiness to accept it.

They lived on dog meat for 16 days to avoid starvation.

HARD PRESSED BY THE BOERS.

Part of the British Army Retreating From Dundee and Glencoe, Leaving Field Hospitals and Wounded Behind.

At Bloemfontein, in the Orange Free State, 4500 feet above the sea, the mean temperature for the year is 62 degrees; the warmest month is January, with a mean of 74 degrees; the coldest July, with a mean of 47 degrees.

The monthly average of the minimum, or night, temperature, is below the freezing point in June and July, but by October it has risen to 48 degrees, and in January and February it is 59 degrees.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Parliamentary Secretary for the War Office, George Wyndham, in the House of Commons to-day announced that Field Marshal Lord Wolsely, the Commander-in-Chief of the forces, sums up the situation in Natal to-day as follows:

"Gen. Yule has fallen back to effect a junction with Sir George Stewart White. He camped yesterday evening about 16 miles south of Dundee without seeing anything of the enemy during the march, and it has since been reported that 'All is well on the Waschbank River.'

"Gen. White fought a successful action with an Orange Free State force to-day on the road between Ladysmith and Newcastle, and should join hands with Gen. Yule this evening.

"Gen. Yule reports that his wounded are doing well.

"The Boer wounded on our hands are treated just as our own, and I have every reason to believe the Boers will treat any of our wounded in their hands in a similarly humane manner.

"I have also received from Gen. Walker, at Cape Town, the following message:

"'The last message from Kimberley, Oct. 22, 2 p. m., reports all well.'"

NOTE.—Gen. Wolseley's summary shows that Gen. Yule has not only evacuated Dundee, leaving his wounded to be cared for by the Boers, but infers that the British have also fallen back from Glencoe.

The report that "all's well on the Waschbank River" would indicate that the Boers, after cutting the railway there, have probably advanced against Gen. White at Ladysmith. The fact that Yule fell back 16 miles without meeting a Boer force, would also indicate that the Boers who were between Glencoe and Ladysmith have moved against the latter place, which is about 40 miles south of Glencoe, leaving the forces under Kruger and Joubert about Dundee to look after the retreating column under Gen. Yule.

That Gen. White has fought a successful battle with the Orange Free State forces and expects to "join hands with Yule this evening," may be taken to mean that White is forced to march to the succor of Yule's command.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The British military situation in Natal is now exceedingly grave. According to the latest dispatches, Gen. Yule, who succeeded Gen. Symons as commander at Glencoe and has abandoned Dundee, has decided to attempt to fall back on Ladysmith if the railway between Glencoe and that place can be made secure—which is extremely doubtful.

The Boer armies now converging on Gen. Yule's force from the Transvaal and the Orange Free State, numbering 11,000 to 12,000 men, will in all probability overwhelm Gen. Yule's division.

This bad news has caused a feeling of intense anxiety, and news of disaster is keenly apprehended.

The Post-Dispatch correspondent can state further that official dispatches were received last evening from Gens. White and Yule, but on consultation between members of the cabinet it was decided to withhold them from the House of Commons.

Persistent rumors are afloat at the military and political clubs that those dispatches announced a grave reverse at Glencoe. This reticence, in contrast with the immediate disclosure of the official dispatches hitherto received, tends to excite the gloomiest forebodings.

The ministers and their supporters are now realizing that they plunged into the war with reckless haste, and the Queen's message—in which she speaks of "dearly bought victory" and "dreadful loss of life"—indicates with a clearness which she has never before permitted herself to indulge in under like circumstances, her disapproval of the war.

The British forces in Natal have already lost in killed or wounded nearly 500 men in three days' fighting. The Gordon Highlanders only lost one officer and five men killed in their famous attack on Dargai Heights in the Afridi campaign, while at Elangslaagte they had four officers killed and nine wounded, twenty men killed and thirty-three wounded.

The Boers distinguish and shoot the officers by reason of their carrying no rifles, their uniform being the same as that of the men.

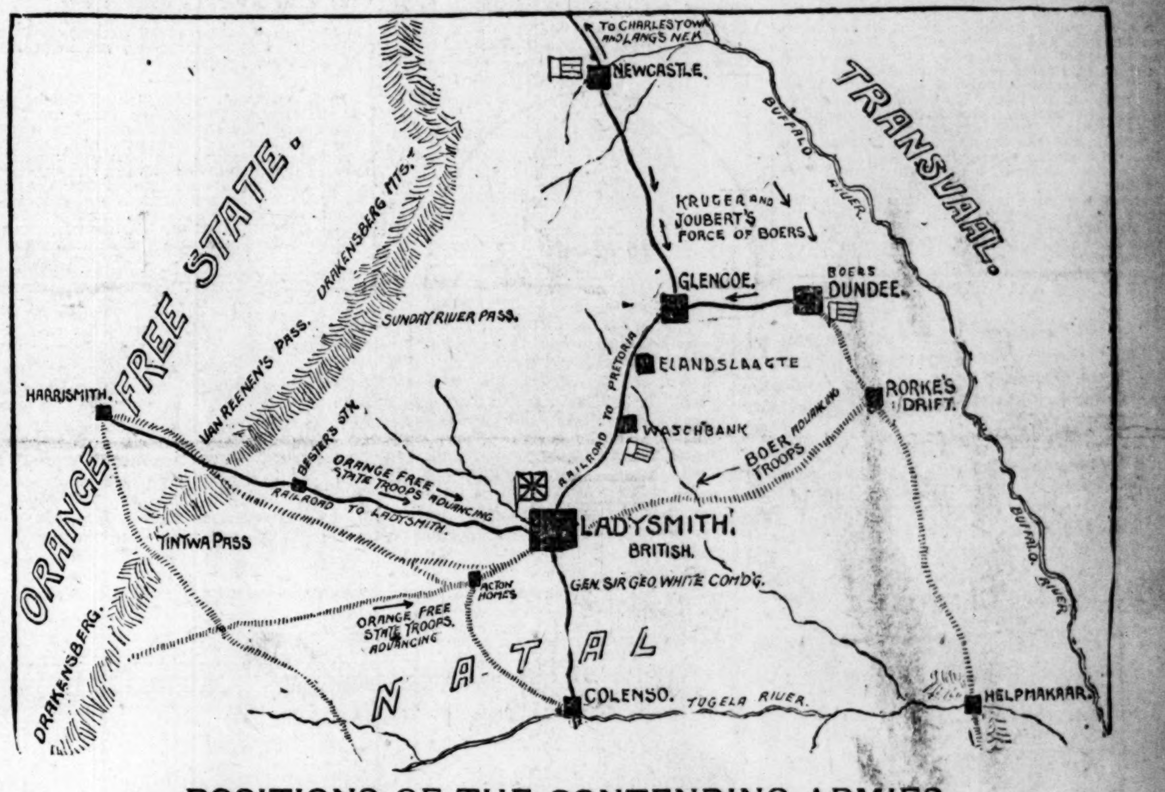
The squadron of Hussars and the section of mounted infantry which pursued the Boers after the first fight at Glencoe (last Friday) are still missing.

There is good reason to state that the statements of great losses sustained by the Boers has been overdrawn by British correspondents. The Boers have fought behind cover for the most part, and it is probable that their losses are at least no greater than on the English side.

The fact that Gen. Yule found it necessary to fall back from Dundee and leave his wounded behind, is hard to explain upon any hypothesis except that of stern necessity, and fear that his army would be cut off and captured.

The War Office here this morning has been attempting to explain the summary of the situation in Natal furnished by the Commander-in-Chief of the forces, Field Marshal Wolsely, to the House of Commons yesterday. His statement is now said to have created unnecessary alarm and it is asserted that what the official note called Gen. Yule's "retirement" would be more accurately described as "a change for tactical reasons," and that the alarm for the safety of the wounded is not justified. It is further explained that the wounded could not be moved; but the fact that they had to be left to their fate while the British forces made a strategic movement to the rear shows the suspense of the House at the absence of subsequent news is amply justified and that the heavy fighting on Friday and perhaps Sunday is only a prelude to still sterner work. In some quarters the view is taken that the second attack of the Boers has actually occurred and was so successful that Gen. Yule's withdrawal was imperative and urgent to the extent of compelling him to leave his hospitals in the hands of the Boers, while the more sanguine express the opinion that Gen. Yule, far from retreating, has in reality advanced to meet the attack threatening Glencoe, leaving Dundee behind, safely sheltered from a Boer assault.

In the absence of authentic news there are a number of contradictory rumors afloat, but the most reasonable interpretation of the various reports seems to indicate that there was artillery firing at Glencoe Satur-



POSITIONS OF THE CONTENDING ARMIES.

Reference to the map printed above makes fairly clear the significance of to-day's news from the theater of war in South Africa.

The Boers under Kruger and Joubert have compelled the British to evacuate Dundee and probably Glencoe, the scene of Friday's battle. The Boers have also appeared at Waschbank on the railway between Glencoe and Ladysmith, in sufficient force to interrupt communication between Gen. White, British commander at Ladysmith, and Gens. Yule and French, British commanders at Glencoe.

In addition to this grave situation of the British forces, two divisions of Orange Free State Boers are advancing (see map), one from the east and one from the west, on Ladysmith.

This fact probably explains Gen. White's call upon Pietermaritzburg, where his small reserve force is encamped, for reinforcements.

The distances from Ladysmith to Glencoe is about 40 miles. From Ladysmith to Pietermaritzburg is 120 miles by rail. Pietermaritzburg is 70 miles from Durban, the chief seaport of Natal, where British troops from India and England may land.

While the total British force under Gen. White's command is over 20,000, these soldiers are not all available for operations at Ladysmith and Glencoe. More than half must be kept at other stations.

When the Boers invaded Natal last week the military conditions at Dundee, Ladysmith and Pietermaritzburg were: Dundee, strongly fortified, was held by only 3000 men with 12 field and six mountain guns. Ladysmith was garrisoned by 2000 men with 12 field guns. At Pietermaritzburg were stationed the First Manchester, 750 men, 500 troopers of the newly-raised Imperial Light Horse, under Col. J. J. Chisholme, with the newly-arrived Forty-second Field Battery from India, a grand total of not over 6500 men. The Boers' force is computed at twice that number.

day and Sunday, but no fighting at close quarters.

As, however, communication between Glencoe and Ladysmith, which was thought to have been restored by the British victory at Elandslaagte, has again been broken by the destruction of the railroad bridge at Washbank, north of Ladysmith, the difficulties of the British commander in Natal, Gen. White, in reinforcing Glencoe have been enormously increased, and until the British forces at Ladysmith and Glencoe are united and the main body of the Boers is broken, the situation must remain disquieting for the British.

The afternoon papers here sharply criticize Lord Wolsely's summary of the Natal situation. They say it has a distinct resemblance to the statement of the Spanish Ministry when preparing their countrymen for news of the disaster at Santiago. This, however, is probably an overstrained view.

There is no denying, however, the great suspense and anxiety existing, which has been increased by the report in circulation, purporting to emanate from official quarters, to the effect that the Boers have secured the services of 13,000 natives.

Gen. Yule's chances of re-enforcement at present are exceedingly poor, and he is already outnumbered.

Gen. White, at Ladysmith, is looking for re-enforcements from Pietermaritzburg for himself to meet the expected attack of the Orange Free State army, which is reported to be advancing against him in two divisions—one from the east and the other from the west. If the Boers succeed in cutting the railway between Ladysmith and the coast re-enforcements cannot be sent to Gen. White from Pietermaritzburg or Durban.

WHAT DOES ENGLAND FEAR?

Her Army and Naval Preparations Far Beyond the Necessities of the Present War.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The sailing of the channel squadron to-day for Gibraltar is now regarded by the keenest observers as an indication that some unexpected attack upon British interests is possible.

The magnitude of the preparations for the war, which are out of all proportion to the requirements of the military situation, can be adequately expected on the theory that the Government suspected that some great power would be tempted to size the opportunity for striking a sudden blow or carrying out a deeply cherished policy.

The quarter from which an attack of this kind may come is unmistakable. The Prussian press has had license to criticise the English policy in South Africa in the most acrid way and a rumor that Herat may be occupied is already in the air. British commercial interests in Persia are so large that a Russian seizure of the commanding position in Western Afghanistan would be a serious stroke, aimed directly against free trade. That seems a more likely menace than the forcing of the Dardenelles by the Russian Black Sea fleet.

The movement of a powerful French fleet to the Levant coincides with the circulation of a rumor that the Russian advance may be resumed in Asia while England is preoccupied at war in South Africa. It also fits in with the explanation of a secret agreement between England and Germany, which I have already given in previous dispatches. This was that England, in return for a free hand in South Africa in settling the Transvaal question, had agreed not to make any hostile use of her fleet if the German Emperor were to decide to follow up his visit to Jerusalem with a serious attempt to colonize any portion of Asia Miner and to bring it under German influence.

A prominent diplomatist says that the nature of the Anglo-Germany agreement was the closet secret in European diplomacy, but that the foregoing statement was the most reasonable explanation which he had ever heard. Denials may be expected as a matter of course, but it may be stated on high authority that the British Navy will not be used against Germany in the Levant, and that this is the secret understanding which has released England from all risk of German intervention in South Africa.

Certainly, Germany is not the quarter from which England has suspected that some sudden attack might be made, and consequently has ordered preparations for war on a larger scale than the campaign with the Dutch burghers has justified.

The channel squadron will not sail to the Mediterranean on account of any German menace. The relations of England and Germany are most cordial, and the Emperor's visit next month is a plain indication that for practical reasons he is reconciled to a policy which enables the British Government to recover the Dutch Republics and to bring them under the authority of the crown.

England and Germany are acting together in the Samoan negotiations, but not to the disadvantage of America. Indeed, German policy is now directed toward the establishment of the most cordial relations with America as well as England. Gen. Harrison, who, with his wife, dined last night at the House of Commons with Mr. Balfour to meet the leaders in English public life, would be a good witness for this point, for he was entertained by the Emperor at Potsdam and by the German Chancellor at Berlin.

CUT OFF BY THE BOERS

Critical Situation of the British Forces at Mafeking and Kimberley.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—News has at length been received direct from Col. Baden-Powell, dated Mafeking, Oct. 15. It confirms the statement that in the armored train fight the British had two men killed and fifteen wounded, including Lieutenant Lord Charles Bentinck of the Ninth Lancers, slightly wounded.

The Boer loss was estimated at fifty-three killed and many wounded.

The latest advices from Kimberley, under date of Oct. 21, said the Boer attack was still pending and that large Boer forces in the neighborhood had destroyed sections of the railroad line northwest of the town. Many fugitives from neighboring villages have been imprisoned by the Boers.

Several ladies, hearing their husbands had been captured, visited the Boer camp and were courteously received. Their intercession for their husbands was successful and the reunited families have arrived at Kimberley. The prisoners report that they were well treated.

According to runners who have arrived at Kimberley from Kuruman, British Bechuanaland, the resident magistrate there has recently presided at a council of the native chiefs. He advises them not to participate in the war. The natives expressed satisfaction at the magistrate's explanations and promised to remain quiescent.

A dispatch from Pretoria, dated Oct. 20, indicates that the Rhodesians, under Col. Plumer, at Fort Tuli, on the Transvaal border, are taking the offensive. They have attacked a Boer patrol at Rhodes' Drift, but apparently not much damage was done on either side. The Boers say that they lost three horses.

A dispatch from Kuruman, dated Oct. 19, via the Orange River, says a dispatch received there has furnished details of the fight at Mafeking, Oct. 14. They confirm the Associated Press accounts and show that Col. Fitzclarence's squadron was nearly outflanked by the Boers. The armored train was unable to assist the squadron for fear of hitting the British soldiers. Col. Baden-Powell signaled to Fitzclarence to retire, but the latter replied that he was hampered by his wounded and could not desert them and could not return without reinforcements. Lieut. Lord Charles Bentinck of the Ninth Lancers was then ordered, with a squadron, to disengage Fitzclarence and the retreat was effected in good order.

The efficacy of the armored train was thoroughly proven. The crew did great execution. While the fighting was proceeding outside the townsmen stood by the defenses of the town. Splendid spirit is said to have been shown by every one, even the women shouldering Lee-Metford rifles, which they know how to handle.

Major Baillie had an exciting experience near Mafeking while attempting to convey orders from the base to the front. He had to run the gauntlet of the enemy 250 yards away. A hot fire was opened on him and Baillie's water bottle was shattered. The next moment his horse was shot and fell and Baillie had a narrow escape from capture. He reached the train.

A courteous note has reached Col. Baden-Powell from Gen. Cronje, the Boer commander, offering facilities for the interchange of wounded prisoners. This indicates that when the Boers fired on the ambulance train which was attempting to pick up the dead they did so by mistake.

A native rumor says Col. Plumer, at Tuli, has engaged and defeated a force of Boers.

FACING THE "BLACK PERIL"

One of the Horrible Possibilities of the British-Boer War in South Africa.

One of the horrible possibilities of the British-Boer war is an outbreak of the black population in South Africa.

The following comparative table shows the numbers of the two races:

Country.	Black	White.
Cape Colony	1,600,000	400,000
Rhodesia	1,000,000	5,000
Transvaal	850,000	250,000
Natal	530,000	50,000
Basutoland	250,000	600
Orange Free State	200,000	80,000
Swaziland	70,000	....
British Central Africa	850,000	500
Bechuanaland	250,000	2,000

In the Transvaal there are 850,000 natives and 250,000 whites. The natives are mostly confined to the northern portions of the republic, the Zoutpansberg, Spelonken and Letaba districts, and here they live and thrive in their thousands. The Witwatersrand mine labor is largely supplied from these districts, and the Transvaal's Government has its native commissioners scattered throughout the country. There is not very much chance of any serious danger to the Transvaal from the natives within its borders. Small sporadic uprisings might take place among the late Magato's men and tribes under M'pefu, but, generally speaking, the Transvaal natives are too downtrodden, bullied and cowed to offer armed interference. On the other hand, the Swazies constitute a serious menace, inasmuch as they bitterly resented the handing over of their country to Boer authorities, and have over and over again pleaded for direct British control. The Swazies are an off-shoot of the Zulus and a valiant fighting race. If they attack the Boars or come over the Transvaal border it will be a serious and not easily quelled affair.

In the Cape Colony there are 1,600,000 natives and 400,000 whites. Between these two, it must be remembered, there are several thousands of Malays and "Cape Boys," the latter of whom are practically half-castes and the former to all intents and purposes whites. The Malays form an integral, reliable and considerable portion of the population of Cape Town and its suburbs. They are all Mohammedans and have their own mosques and Ladjies, or priests. Most law-abiding, thrifty and honest, they make excellent and desirable citizens. They are among the most loyal of Britain's subjects.

In Basutoland, which lies on the borders of the Orange Free State, there are 250,000 natives and barely 600 whites. The natives are excellent agriculturists, and, next to the Zulus, perhaps the best specimens of any of the black races of the subcontinent.

The most recent portion of South Africa to come under the British sway is Rhodesia, which embraces the combined Provinces of Matabeleland, Mashonaland, Manicaland and a portion of what was formerly Linchwe's country. Naturally, being as yet barely colonized, the disproportion of races is enormous. In Rhodesia there are over 1,000,000 natives and fewer than 5000 whites. At the same time it may safely be taken for granted that it is to this portion of the continent that the tide of emigration will set during the next year. In British Central Africa there are 850,000 natives and 500 whites. This huge tract of country, although under British influence, will take many years to colonize, and is now and bound to remain for a long while, a "black man's country." Bechuanaland, which is now formally annexed to the Cape Colony, and includes the vast tract of land at one time known as Khama's country, numbers 250,000 natives and 2000 whites. The latter are mainly farmers, transport riders, storekeepers, and that section of the police formerly called the B. B. P., or Bechuanaland Border Police, a very fine body of men, to all intents and purposes a semi-military corps of mounted infantry.

Natal contains within its borders no fewer than 530,000 natives, almost all Zulus (Natal is reckoned as including Zululand proper), and 50,000 white folk. There are thus 12 natives to every white inhabitant. The Zulus are a fine, healthy, upstanding race, and, when not contaminated by European influence, customs and vices (for the Zulu is very imitative), they are trustworthy, honorable and, in short, a tribe of nature's noblemen. Unfortunately they easily deteriorate, but when isolated in their own locations they keep up all the traditions of a fearless independence. They are loyal to England.

The Orange Free State presents the nearest approach to equality between the two races. Here there are 200,000 natives and 80,000 whites, or about two and one-half to one. The total white population of the whole of South Africa is approximately 820,000, of which 432,000 may be classed as Dutch and 388,000 as English, in sympathy, at any rate, if not by birth.

Her screams brought assistance, but before her burning clothes could be torn from her she had been so badly burned that her recovery is despaired of.

Fern Ridge is about 10 miles from Clayton. The family of the girl live in the neighborhood.

Yellow Fever in the Army.

It isn't the number of men that yellow fever kills that frightens you, but the unexpected suddenness of its attack, and the rapidity with which it kills. A man is well and hearty at 3 p. m.; at 4 p. m. he is deadly ill; at 6 p. m. he is dead, and at 8 p. m. he is buried. In much the same manner men will work day after day in apparent health, and then will suddenly appear a general weakness. The body is giving out. It needs something to strengthen it, to drive away the impurities of the blood, to tone up the stomach, and assist digestion. For this purpose Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is highly recommended. PHELPS' REPLY TO GOV. STONE.

Railroad Attorney Becomes a Trifle Sarcastic.

SAYS STONE'S THE ONLY MAN.

"I JUDGE FROM WHAT GOV. STONE SAYS HIMSELF."

Refers to the Convention of 1892, When the Campaign for Governor Was on and What Happened.

E-Gov. William J. Stone is out in a statement that he will oppose Mr. W. H. Phelps' candidacy for the position of delegate-at-large to the Democratic National Convention.

Among other things, the ex-Governor says:

"As to Mr. Phelps, I do not hesitate to say that I am opposed to his selection. I would oppose his selection if I knew I should stand alone in that opposition. That opposition is not because of any personal grievance against Mr. Phelps, for I have none. If only the individual were concerned, I would say nothing. My opposition is not on personal, but political grounds.

"In politics the Missouri Pacific and W. H. Phelps are one and the same. Without the railroad at his back Mr. Phelps' influence would be confined to a narrow limit. With that powerful corporation behind him, he has been able to influence many people in one way or another. The power of the pass is very great, but the giving of passes is not the only means railroads can use to influence those they wish to influence. With the passes and the treasury of the railroad at his command, together with the power of the road to coerce its employes, as was done in this State in 1896, it is easy to see that any man who takes all that power into politics becomes a potent factor. It is the power of the corporation, not of the man. The man is only the agent of the corporation; and the corporation would not permit the man to use its powers, if the corporation itself were not interested in the outcome."

Mr. W. H. Phelps said, in reply, Monday: "If you think the readers of the Post-Dispatch care to read anything on the subject you may say I have never stated to anyone that I am a candidate for delegate-at-large, and have never said that I thought I could be elected.

"I am not surprised that Gov. Stone should take occasion to announce his opposition to my candidacy, but I am surprised that it puts it on the ground that I am connected with a railway company.

"In 1892 I was elected delegate to the National Convention and was supported by Gov. Stone. Every delegate from Southwest Missouri voted for me, except three from Vernon County, and Gov. Stone claimed they were enemies of his, and they voted against me because he supported me. I was then, as now, in the service of the Missouri Pacific Railway Co., and he was seeking the nomination for Governor."

Mr. Phelps was asked, if a delegate to the National Convention, who he would support for member of the National Committee.

"I presume Gov. Stone is the only man in the State who can fill the place," he said. "At least, I judge so from what Gov. Stone says himself.

"You know," he added, "the Governor says he is not a candidate for the place, but that a good man, capable of doing the best work possible, should be selected for the place, and he fills the bill and will reluctantly take the place, and I am sure it will be a gratification to the people of the State to know that he is willing to sacrifice his time and money for the party, and they will, no doubt, avail themselves of his kind offer.

"It is very seldom you find men willing to give themselves up entirely for the good of the public."

DEATH DUE TO SCALDING

Little Robert Dailey Fell Into a Bucket of Hot Water and Received Such Injuries That He Died.

The sufferings of little Robert Dailey of 2332 Randolph street are ended. The child was scalded while playing with his older brother in the kitchen at his home last Saturday. Mrs. Dailey was present at the time. She had heated a bucket of water. She lifted the bucket from the stove and set it in the center of the kitchen floor. While she was drawing more water from the hydrant Robert and his brother came running into the room.

Robert, who was only two years old, stumbled and fell headlong into the bucket of hot water. Mrs. Dailey ran to the baby's aid, but he was unconscious when she picked him up. Physicians were summoned, but the little fellow's condition was such they could do nothing more than apply lotions to ease his sufferings. The boy was a son of C. P. Dailey. The funeral will take place Wednesday.

"MOTHER'S NOTIONS"

Good For Young People to Follow.

"My little grandson often comes up to show me how large the muscles of his arms are.

"He was a delicate child, but has developed into a strong, healthy boy and Postum Cereal Food Coffee has been the principal factor.

"I was induced to give him the Postum coffee because of my own experience with it.

"I am sixty years old, and have been a victim of nervous dyspepsia for many years. Have tried all sorts of patent medicines and had treatment from many physicians, but no permanent relief came. I believe nervous dyspeptics suffer more than other sick people, as they are affected mentally as well as physically.

"I used to read the Postum Cereal advertisements every week in our paper. At first I gave but little attention to them, thinking it was a fraud like so many I had tried, but finally something was said in one of the advertisements that made me conclude to try it. I was very particular to have it prepared strictly according to directions, and use good rich cream. It was very nice indeed, and about bedtime I said to the members of the family that I believed I felt better. One of them laughed and said, 'That's another of mother's notions,' but the notion has not left me yet.

"I continued to improve right along after leaving off coffee, and taking Postum Cereal Food Coffee, and now after three years' use I feel so well that I am almost young again. I know Postum was the cause of the change in my health and I cannot say too much in its favor. I wish I could persuade all nervous people to use it. I have no objections to your using my name, if it will do good to even one sufferer." Mrs. M. L. Turner, 2619 Capitol Av., Omaha, Neb

MADDERN'S HANDS BURNED

Leader of the Century Orchestra Painfully Injured and His Music Library Entirely Destroyed.

Prof. William Maddern, leader of the Century Theater orchestra and of Maddern's Military Band, was seriously burned about the hands while trying to save his music from a fire that started in his flat, 4275A Finney avenue, Monday afternoon at 6 o'clock.

The fire is supposed to have had its origin in a cigarette stump thrown into a pile of papers by paper hangers who were at work in the flat.

Prof. Maddern's music library was almost totally destroyed, which entails a loss of several thousand dollars. The damage, aside from this, was slight.

The professor will be unable to lead his orchestra for some time.

ARE FIGURING ON A CHANGE.

The Kennard Carpet Co. Preparing to Move to Fourth Street.

The J. Kennard & Sons Carpet Co. has secured, through the Anderson-Wade Realty Co., a lease for five years on the new building, 412 and 414 North Fourth street, on the site of the structure which was occupied by C. & W. McClean at the time of its destruction by explosion and fire; and it will occupy the place either wholly or in part until the completion of its contemplated mercantile house on the southwest corner of Washington avenue and Fourth street, the site of the old Armory building.

The Kennard company has a 99-year lease of the latter ground, and is preparing to erect a seven-story store suited to the needs of its large and growing business. A delay has been caused, however, by the fact that the American Express Co. has its offices in the Armory building, that its lease does not expire for three and a half years, and that it is reluctant to move until the lease expires.

Mr. Kennard has it in mind to lease to the express company the first floor of the new building which has just been secured on Fourth street, to use the upper floors for the storage of carpets and to proceed at once with the erection of the new building. In this way the latter could be completed and ready for occupancy by the time the lease expires for the store which it now has.

Should the express company decline to move until its lease runs out the Kennard company will occupy the building which it has just rented, 412 and 414 North Fourth street, as its store, and will hire a warehouse elsewhere; and so soon as the lease of the express company expires the erection of the new building will begin.

HANNA TAKES TO THE STUMP.

Three Speeches in One Night at Fostoria.

NO SUCH THINGS AS TRUSTS.

CALLS BRYAN A DEAD DUCK IN POLITICS.

Ohio Republicans Filled the Town Eager to Get a Glimpse of the Man Who Made McKinley.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FOSTORIA, O., Oct. 24.—Marcus A. Hanna came down from Cleveland late yesterday and was driven in an open carriage to the old Hayes house. Here a small crowd had gathered to welcome him. After shaking hands with those who pressed around him he elbowed his way to an old arm chair in the center of the lobby and sat down to rest his rheumatic knee.

It was not many minutes before word of his arrival was passed along the line, and within 10 minutes after he registered it seemed as though every butcher, baker and candlestick maker in Fostoria had come out to meet him. Sitting in this old cane bottom chair, with his rheumatic leg straightened out, his head uncovered, he shook hands with 300 or 400 men and boys who had filed slowly by. Col. Green stood near the Senator's chair and introduced the passers-by.

"Senator Hanna, this is Mr. Blank, city barber.

"Mr. Smith, the keeper of the big store, Senator.

"Mr. Jones, the dry goods merchant, Senator.

"Mr. Brown, one of our Seneca County farmers, Senator."

In this wise Col. Green introduced the visitors. The Senator smiled and shook each hand warmly, saying:

"How do you do, sir? Glad to see you, my boy."

Occasionally some one whom he knew came along and of course the greeting was more cordial.

When the crowd had thinned out and all but a few stragglers had gone to supper, the Senator left the hotel and started down to the city barber shop, to get spruced up for the next meeting. At the door of the hotel stood an old fellow, evidently a Dunkard, judging from the cut of his whiskers and style of his dress. The old man, timid and modest, had been peering into the hotel window for several minutes before the Senator came out. Plucking up sufficient courage he approached the Senator.

"Be this Mr. Hanna?" he asked, extending his hand.

"It is he," said the Senator, smiling, as he grasped the big, sunburned, weather-beaten hand.

"Wall, I'll be gosh darned," he said, with the old Yankee twang, "and ye don't look a bit like them thar cartoons of ye, either!"

The Senator smiled and said he was glad he did not, and walked on down to the city barber.

Fostoria, nominally, is a Republican town, but there are a few Democrats here, and since President McKinley has started to inject liberty into the Filipinos, through the medium of 16-inch guns, the Republicans fear their hold on the vote is not ironclad. Hence Hanna's coming. The county for miles has been billed like a circus with great flaming posters, announcing "Big speaking in Fostoria by Senator M. A. Hanna and others." This town is plastered with the old lithographs used in the compaign of 1896, depicting Bryan and McKinley, one advocating the opening of the mills, the other the opening of the mint. Everyone certainly remembers this poster. It is evident that an over-supply of these lithographs were ordered or that the campaign managers gathered them in after election, as those displayed here are from the same plate as those we all looked at in the McKinley-Bryan campaign. However, they have been made to serve their purpose in the Ohio contest by very slight modifications. Across the top of the poster these words in large capitals, in red ink, have been stamped:

"Was McKinley right?" This question is asked but not answered.

After Mr. Hanna had been spruced up by the barber he clambered upstairs and slept nearly an hour. When he awoke he seemed as fresh as a daisy, and, in company with Col. Brown and two or three other important looking people with reception badges in their lapels, he went down to the little low ceiling dining room, where a country supper, beginning with biscuits and honey and concluding with corn cakes, was served. The Senator had his appetite with him all right and nothing palatable escaped his eye. If there is any one thing the Senator can do when he feels well it is to eat heartily. A pretty little pink-cheeked girl served the Senator's table.

The evening trains brought four or five thousand people from Tiffin and surrounding towns and by the time the Senator had finished his supper the street in frront of the hotel was jammed with a crowd of howling Republicans, all clamoring for a sight of Hanna. Their curiosity was soon appeased, however, as the Senator came out on the balcony of the hotel and showed himself. The crowd cheered, a band played a patriotic air, the hotel doors were thrown open and the crowd rushed pellmell, helter-skelter up the wooden stairs to the Senator's room.

Mr. Hanna opened the Republican campaign by making three speeches to as many different audiences. The Senator's speech was entirely extemporaneous. He paid his respects to John R. McLean and took a fling at Mr. Bryan. Mr. Bryan, he said, is a dead duck, politically, and he hoped he would be the nominee again in 1900, because he would be easy to defeat.

"Trusts," the Senator said dramatically, changing the subject; "there is no such thing. A trust is property in the hands of a trustee to be managed. There are corporations, but not trusts. I am against all combinations of capital which work to the disadvantage of the people, but I am not against a combination because it is such."

Senator Hanna tried to talk trusts and expansion at a mass meeting in Cleveland Saturday night. He started out to ridicule the Democratic platform. When he came to the mention of free silver the whole audience burst into a cheer for the white metal.

When Hanna mentioned Bryan's name the cheering broke loose again. The applause subsiding, Senator Hanna cried:

"That's right, yell. There is not a Democrat in the United States whom I would rather see nominated than Bryan. We beat him out once, and I guess we can do it again."

Again the crowd yelled.

"I see you are going to have some fun with me," continued the Senator, "but I do not intend to be put down by any such remarks as you have sprung on me."

"We want Jones," came from the audience.

"I have just as much Irish blood in me as you and a good deal of Scotch, and if I had a little Welsh, I could stand you all off," said Hanna.

When Senator Hanna undertook to attack Jones the audience went wild.

"That's the boy," the auditors yelled. When the Senator got to the point where he mentioned the "unmatchable Republican ticket," some one yelled: "Who made the ticket, you?"

"Before I came out here," said Hanna, "I was told that I would find a lot of hoodlums. Now I believe it."

Amidst cheering for Jones, whistling and stamping, the meeting broke up.

ORDERS FOR FORTY-EIGHTH.

Regiment Will Join Gen. Otis in the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Forty-eighth Infantry, now on duty at Fort Thomas, Ky., has been ordered to proceed to San Francisco on Nov. 7 preparatory to embarking for the Philippine Islands.

WILL QUAY BE SEATED?

MANY REPUBLICANS ARE OPPOSED TO THE BOSS.

SENATOR BURROWS IS ONE.

He Cites the Corbett Case as a Precedent Against Letting Quay In.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The seating of Matthew S. Quay will be antagonized by many Republicans in the Senate. Those who are opposed to recognizing the appointing power of Gov. Stone will base their action on precedents, some of which Mr. Quay assisted in establishing.

Senator Burrows of Michigan, a member of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, which will pass on Quay's right to a seat, arrived here to-day. Senator Burrows said:

"The case of ex-Senator Quay is parallel to that presented by Corbett of Oregon, which the Senate decided adversely. I am surprised that Senator Quay should attempt to get a seat in the Senate in the face of the Corbett precedent. I intend to vote against seating him and to speak against it if necessary. To seat Quay would make a bad precedent. An unscrupulous man failing to command votes enough in the Legislature could conspire with others to deadlock it and prevent a choice, and if he stood in with the Governor could secure the appointment and be seated in face of an adverse popular sentiment. I consider the case of Quay fraught with great danger.

"Ever since he entered the Senate 12 years ago Quay has voted against seating members on gubernatorial credentials. In recent years four gubernatorial appointees have been rejected by the Senate. If the Senate should decide to give Quay his seat three other gubernatorial appointees will have the right to demand admission, two of whom will be Democrats, one from Delaware and the other from Utah. The third will be a Republican from California."

SURE OF GOEBEL'S ELECTION.

Urey Woodson of Kentucky Forecasts the Coming Election.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—"I am in the city on purely personal business," remarked Urey Woodson of Owensboro, Democratic National Committeeman from Kentucky, at the Hoffman House.

"I have been in almost every portion of the State during the present campaign and I am satisfied that William Goebel will be elected Governor by a handsome majority. Advices received by me since my arrival here have strengthened me in my opinion."

Reports are in circulation about political quarters that Mr. Woodson is here for the purpose of raising money for the Goebel campaign fund.

Richard Croker declined to speak one way or another on the report that Mr. Woodson had come to borrow campaign funds of him. When the subject was first broached he turned abruptly away, muttering that he "didn't know anything about it."

"Then we are to understand that there is nothing in the story, Mr. Croker," was suggested.

"What business have you to ask any such question?" said Mr. Croker, testily. "Do you think we are going to tell you our business?"

A PREACHER NO OBJECTION

The Predicament in Which Grace Church, New York, Now Finds Itself.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Grace Church is the second wealthiest Protestant Episcopal church in the city. Its congregation is aristocratic. The Rev. Dr. Huntington is the pastor. The edifice is on Broadway, near Eighth street.

For a year or more the good parishioners have been unhappy because a saloon adjoined the day nursery and the windows overlooked the pastor's study.

Th[illegible] bethought themselves and yesterda[illegible]rchased the house in which is the s[illegible]

[illegible]ey are frantic because the bad saloon [illegible]per has a two years' lease on the house.

They must have a saloon on church property or buy the lease.

"I do not object that Dr. Huntington's windows look into my windows," complacently said John Beck, the saloon keeper. "I do not wish to move away because the minister lives near me. He is a good neighbor and very quiet. No, because a church is my landlord I will not sell better beer, for there is no better beer than I sell now. Certainly I will not sell my lease unless I am well paid for it. I am doing a good business here and I am perfectly satisfied."

POLITICS AT A FUNERAL

A Colored Preacher Who Made the Most of His Opportunity at the Bier.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—It may be truly said that politics is being carried beyond the grave in Jamaica, Long Island.

The Rev. E. M. McDaniel, pastor of the Colored Methodist Church there, preached a funeral sermon over the body of John Grimm a day or two ago. Many weeping friends and relatives were present, and, as most were voters, the Rev. McDaniel, an ardent Democrat, seized the opportunity.

"An' now, bredren," he concluded, "I can't forbear sayin' jest a few moh words to you. If our dear brudder was here in the flesh, if he was goin' to de polls instead o' goin' to de deep, dark grave, I would say de same to him, 'Vote for Mr. McLaughlin, Democratic candidate for Justice in de Third District of 'dis b'rough. Don't vote for Mr. Wood, de 'Publican candidate. Mr. Wood is a good man, but he's always somewhere else. You can always put your hands on Mr. McLaughlin when you want justice and want it quick.'

"Dat's what I would say to our brudder if he had a ballot in his han' instead o' dese beautiful white roses. May his soul rest in peace. We will now all sing de beautiful hymn beginning:

" 'Come troopin', Breddern, to de Fight,
" 'Come Ye Hosts, in all Yoh Might.' "

THE TRUST IDEA MARCHES SOUTH.

Proposed Combine of the Cotton Growers.

BACKED BY SUGAR INTEREST.

FARMERS' ALLIANCE SCHEME WARMED OVER.

John E. Searles Is Behind It, and the Purpose Is to Hold Crops and Force Up Prices.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—A cotton growers' trust is the latest. It is the old warehouse scheme of the Farmers' Alliance, backed by the Sugar Trust interests. Its object is to hold the cotton production of this country in warehouses in the South in order to enforce high prices.

Two big conventions are being held in the South to-day at which the allied cotton interests will confer with several millionaires of the East. One of these conventions is at Atlanta, embracing representation from all the South Atlantic States. The other is held at Dallas, Tex., and the cotton interests of the Gulf States will be represented.

John E. Searles, the Sugar Trust millionaire, whose interests now are with the American Cotton Company, of which he is president, will leave to-day for the South to advance the scheme. Percy Thompson, general manager of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Warehousing Co., of New York, will also leave to-day for the South and will read a paper at the Atlanta meeting. The Merchants and Manufacturers' Warehousing Co. is a corporation that stands ready to build warehouses throughout the South for the farmers' use. In these warehouses the cotton may be stored and held until prices go up.

The plan is to hold the cotton market under complete control. Planters will take their cotton to these warehouses, take a receipt for it, which is negotiable at any bank, and thus borrow enough money to pay their debts at the end of the year, or enough of their debts to bridge them over the settlement period, holding their cotton in the warehouse until the cotton mills of this country and Europe run short and prices go up.

Such a plan is not new, but it has never been practicable before because the farmers of the South had not enough financial backing to carry it out. It was just such a plan the Farmers' Alliance asked the United States Government to enforce in the "sub-treasury warehouse" scheme, which was a political issue in the national campaign of 1892.

After much waiting, men with millions have come to the front to build the warehouses and advance the money, the planters having been too poor to hold their cotton heretofore. In nine cases out of 10, the crop was pledged to the storekeeper in the nearest town to lift a mortgage on the mules, cows and other property, and had to be rushed off to market all at once. This caused the entire cotton crop to be hurled into the market within the three months of autumn—the harvesting period—so that prices went down to a figure below the cost of production, working great havoc to the planters.

"What the cotton growers want to do is to distribute this great bulk of cotton in the market throughout 12 months instead of three," is the way Mr. Searles puts it. "This will work better for everybody concerned in the handling of cotton, particularly the farmer."

WOMAN ROBBED OF $75,000

Burglars Entered the London Apartments of Mrs. Stockwell of New York to Secure a Fortune.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The apartments of Mrs. Stockwell, widow of a New York jeweler, in the Savoy Hotel, were entered and robbed.

It is understood the culprits secured jewelry valued at 10,000 pounds and bank notes and other negotiable currency to the amount of 5000 pounds.

Mrs. Stockwell has been stopping at the hotel for some time with a nephew. The apartment was entered while they were at dinner. On returning to the room Mrs. Stockwell found the door locked on the inside. An alarm was raised, and the door forced. The room was found empty, but it had been thoroughly ransacked.

TWO BANDITS DEFY A STATE.

Kansas Desperadoes Kill Two of Their Pursuers.

500 MEN AFTER THEM.

TOOK REFUGE ON AN ISLAND IN THE MISSOURI.

They Robbed a Store at Doniphan, Killed a Citizen and Policemen, Wounded Two Others and Have Eluded Capture.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATCHISON, Kan., Oct. 24.—The two bandits who escaped from an island in the Missouri River near here Sunday night, while being searched for by 500 armed men, are still at large with no tangible clew to work on. The search for them continues, squads of armed men hunting in every direction. Gov. Stanley has offered $500 reward for the capture of the men. This brings the total reward up to $1000.

It is believed, from the brief description, that the bandits are "Jack" Holly and L. Priest, two of the three convicts who escaped from the United States penitentiary Aug. 2. They were sent to the prison cemetery to dig a grave and there overpowered the guard and took his rifle.

The two robbers wounded Charles Kuchs, a merchant of Doniphan, and killed John Braun, a son of Anton Braun, the Doniphan postmaster. In an attempt to capture the bandits Policeman Rovert A. Dickerson of Doniphan was shot in the arm. The robbers got only $10 from Kuchs' store.

While the bandits were holding up Kuchs at Doniphan Saturday night, the alarm was given and citizens rushed out with guns. The bandits had attempted to rob Kuchs' store the night before and several of the townsmen had loaded guns near at hand. Young Braun and John Schaaf were the first to arrive. One of the robbers killed Braun just as Grace fired two charges from a shotgun into the other bandit. He fell, but the other stopped in his flight and held the crowd at bay with his Winchester rifle. He pluckily dragged his companion out of sight, occasionally firing to keep the townsmen at bay. Presumably the wounded bandit soon recovered, and the crowd, which followed, lost the robbers.

A hat and handkerchief which served as a mask for one of the robbers were found where he fell wounded. The handkerchief was bloody and it contained a portion of a mustache and several teeth. One of the robbers evidently had been shot in the face.

All day Sunday several hundred men from Doniphan and Atchison Counties searched through the woods for the bandits. Sunday afternoon Deputy Sheriff Sterling Vastol of St. Joseph came to Atchison with two bloodhounds. The dogs scented the hat the robber left at Doniphan and within a short time had the trail. Inside of two hours the dogs revealed the hiding place of the fugitives. They had made a barricade of logs behind a pile of brush in a swamp which had been an island in the Missouri River. Fifty men were soon on guard.

A consultation was held and it was finally decided to storm the bandits' position, and Owen E. Seip, Chief of Police of Atchison, with a dozen men, advanced on them from the south, while Sheriff Hartman of Atchison and Sheriff Lorziere of Doniphan County led a squad from the north. An exchange of shots was immediately begun, which grew more rapid as the attacking party advanced. Policeman Dickerson aimed at one of the bandits with a rifle, but was shot through the head and killed just as his finger went to the trigger. John Schaaf was then wounded, and the bandits were firing their Winchesters so rapidly that both squads retreated in disorder.

There was great excitement in Atchison when the news was received, and the Burlington ran two special trains to the scene, carrying Atchison men with Winchesters.

After midnight it was discovered that the bandits had deserted their position and the body of Policeman Dickerson was recovered. The marsh where the robbers made their stand is densely covered with willows and is several square miles in area. The only avenue of escape for the bandits was either to cross the slough, now almost dried up, and get on the Kansas shore, or swim the river to the Missouri shore. Fully 300 men were stationed at intervals along the slough from one end to the other and it was considered impossible for the bandits to escape to Kansas without detection. A hundred members of the Buchanan County, Mo., Protective Association lined the Missouri bank of the river all night and saw that they di dnot escape by swimming the stream. When it was discovered that the bandits had deserted their position, an investigation revealed considerable blood on the ground back of the log barricade, and an empty cartridge box and a vest.

Early Monday morning a large number of men beat their way through the forest of willows and the marsh, but found no trace of their men. After daylight a thin column of smoke was seen arising from a remote portion of the big island just above Atchison. This would have been investigated except for the fact that a team of horses was found to be missing from the barn of W. Cummings, a farmer living near Independence Creek, a mile or so from the marsh where the robbers made their stand. The theory is now advanced that the fugitives crept through the line of guards just before the moon came up, and, taking the horses, made a dash to get out of the country.

The bandits have in all probability escaped in Cummings' buggy, drawn by two draft horses. The team was put in the barn about 11 o'clock. About midnight John Ashcraft, a farmer living half a mile west of Cummings' place, saw the rig pass. He called to the two occupants and asked if the robbers had been captured. No response came and the horses were going so fast that he got hardly a glimpse of the men. The same buggy was next seen a few miles further west and it also passed Shannon, six miles west of Atchison, at daylight. These facts became known and a posse started in pursuit only a few hours behind. Telegrams have been sent everywhere and it is believed that the men cannot escape.

Before leaving their barricade the robbers cleaned their rifles. Corn was scattered about the place and they had evidently been eating.

The hope of finding them in the marsh has not been given up and several hundred men are still on the search to-day. The bandits seem to have provided themselves with plenty of ammunition and they are cool and accurate in the use of their Winchesters.

The body of Policeman Dickerson was brought to town. He leaves a wife and six children. Policeman Dickerson was a veteran officer and once in a fight with burglars killed one and captured the other.

The bloodhounds are still used in trailing the bandits. Capt. E. P. Green, late of the Atchison company of the Twenty-second Kansas Volunteers, is at the head of a posse composed principally of his former company, and is scouring the woods north of town. The country for many miles around seems to be searching for the bandits, whose identity remains a mystery.

Coolness has characterized every move made by the bandits, and they have showed wonderful craftiness.

For Christmas.—A concert for the benefit of the Christmas Sunday-school fund of the Tuxedo Park M. E. Chapel will be given at the chapel Wednesday evening, Oct. 25.

RETURNS TO THE STAGE

DELLA FOX A SIDE LIGHT TO DOROTHY MORTON.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Della Fox has accomplished the unexpected again and will return to the stage. She will appear in a secondary role in "The Greek Slave." Dorothy Morton plays the star part and Miss Fox must content herself with one of less importance.

Julia Marlowe added another success to her long list last night when she appeared in Barbara Fritschie. She was the embodiment of loveliness in old-fashioned gowns. The reception given her was as cordial as the applause was bountiful. After every curtain she was called over and over again, and each time responded by appearing for a second between the folds of the green drapery. At the finale of the play, when Gen. "Stonewall" Jackson and a picturesque detachment of his troops crossed the stage, a vehement roll of applause echoed through the house, made into an ovation when the charming actress fell, with a mortal wound, and the thread of the sad love making of charming Barbara was severed by the dropping of the curtain. After eleven curtain calls, Miss Marlowe and Clyde Fitch, the author, were recalled, each gracefully thanking the audience.

The critics are less kindly disposed towards the play than the players. One calls it shoddy and says the defect of the play is its incongruous mixture of dainty, trivial comedy effects and bald melodramatic situations. "There seems to be a constant discord in the characters and the action," he continues.

"The audience is not allowed to adjust its mood to the spirit of either, and the consequence is that scenes intended to provide harrowing thrills and suspense seem flat, forced and hollow." All predict a great financial success.

Alice Neilsen, in "The Singing Girl," also scored a tremendous success last night.

PRINCESS CHIMAY COMING.

With Her Gypsy Husband She Is to Appear on the New York Stage.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The Princess Chimay, otherwise Clara Ward, is coming to New York and to that mecca of all women who seek notoriety at any cost. The burlesque stage will receive her. In company with her gypsy husband, Rigo, she will, in December, be seen at a variety theater in this city. Her agents assert that she and Rigo will receive a salary of $10,000 a week and that they hold prospective contracts with at least 25 theaters for her appearance, and that the tour will be continued through Mexico and South America.

Up to this time Princess Chimay had steadily resisted all offers to exploit herself and her story on the stage. She needs money now and in a letter to her agents said:

"If you wanted an actress or a singer I should decline, because I can neither act nor sing. But if you want a 'show' for the American variety stage I can fill the bill."

SIG. MARCONI ON WARSHIPS

The Wireless Telegraphy Will Be Given a Test in the North Atlantic Squadron.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Rear Admiral Farquhar, in command of the North Atlantic squadron, has received Sig. Marconi, the wireless telegraphy expert, aboard the warships New York and Massachusetts, and the inventor is now harnessing the two vessels with his apparatus, preparatory to making practical demonstrations of the use of wireless telegraphy as a means of communication between ships of a fleet and between ships and the shore.

In signaling during the test it is intended to use the wireless telegraphy instead of flag and colored lights.

The ships are expected to be ready for the trial this week.

THE IRON IS HOT.

To-night's joint meeting of the Executive and Finance Committees at the Mercantile Club is one of the most important in the movement for a World's Fair in St. Louis.

During the latter part of the summer and the early autumn, while the fall festivities were in progress, no meetings of the World's Fair Committees were held. But a great deal of necessary work in the way of harmonizing and lining up all the citizens and interests of the city in support of the World's Fair was accomplished. The Post-Dispatch's publication of letters from prominent citizens representing every interest in the city and from Governors of Louisiana Purchase States demonstrated the necessity of a supreme effort of all St. Louisans to make the World's Fair a success for the honor, prestige and future welfare of the city and the conviction that St. Louis can and will score a triumph.

With the return of cool weather, interest and enthusiasm have revived. The harvest of the plowing and planting is to be reaped. With the right kind of spirit and the right kind of work the World's Fair fund can be completed and the corporation organized within a month.

To-night's meeting should be attended by all the members of the committees and by citizens who realize the importance of vigorous effort for the World's Fair. Every St. Louisan has a commission for this public work.

The World's Fair iron is hot. Strike it.

ATTENTION TO DETAIL.

An English newspaper, commenting upon the yacht race, remarks that American success is due in large measure to the attention to detail which the Yankee gives whenever he does anything.

There is no doubt much truth in this. Success is cumulative. It is made up of many little things. But the patient attention to details is not the chief element of success. That is a humble, albeit essential virtue. But it is in putting the details together, upon an ideal model conceived in the brain, that Americans excel. Their virtue is in ideas rather than in workmanship.

It is said that in the Swedish schools of manual training there is work done which would put to shame the cunningest American craftsman. Yet the American would probably beat the Swede in inventive faculty and therefore in the long run get the better of him as a practical workman.

Our Wonderful New Gun.—Jules Verne will admit that truth is stranger than fiction, when he hears about Uncle Sam's new gun, which shoots at a velocity of 3042 feet per second. This is over half a mile. It is at the rate of 2093 miles an hour. If the velocity could be maintained and the shot deflected around the earth's curvature, the entire journey would be made in less than 12 hours. The swift-traveling meteors will have to take second place if Yankee invention continues its course.

BABY PARTIES.

People who have nothing to do but amuse themselves have a melancholy time of it.

The latest is the "baby party," invented to drive away the blue devils from the "New York set" at Newport.

Members of the "400" got themselves up as infants, pushed each other about in improvised baby carriages, and otherwise revealed the vast vacancy of their idle minds. After dinner we are told they played "baby games."

There is something unspeakably pathetic in all this. These unfortunates are in a deplorable condition. They have no work to do. They have exhausted rational pleasures, it seems, or have no taste for them, and this feeble folly of baby games is resorted to as a last refuge from the deadly dullness of a purposeless life; yet it is sometimes said that these same people are the best product of American civilization. If true, let us import some elements of the Boer civilization. It would tone up society and make us more wholesome.

If the women of the "400" would have more babies and less baby parties, they would be healthier morally, mentally and physically.

THE ART OF DESTRUCTION.

A cable in the Sunday Post-Dispatch reports a dirigible balloon now being constructed by the German Government which a British army officer, who has examined it, thinks a perfectly practical invention.

On the same page is another cable to the effect that the German Emperor wants more battleships.

Read together the two stories are interesting. If his balloon is practicable the Emperor need not be solicitous about battleships. When the balloon appears in the air and proves itself really dirigible, the value of battleships will fall to the price of old iron.

Peace will be assured when the art of destruction reaches perfection; which will be when two or three men can destroy a fleet or an army by dumping a few bags of dynamite from a balloon.

A PALATIAL TRUST.

The plea has frequently been heard that trusts are formed for self-preservation, to avoid impending ruin.

No such plea can be advanced in the case of the consolidation of the Pullman and Wagner interests. It is a clear case of forming a monopoly for the sake of further taxing the public, which was already paying handsome profits to the members of the new combine.

The Wagner Company was paying 8 per cent dividends on its capital of $20,000,000. The Pullman Company paid 8 per cent each year from 1877 to 1880; 9½ per cent from 1881 to 1883; 8 per cent from 1894 to 1897, and in 1898 28 per cent in cash and 50 per cent in stock.

After this last distribution of enormous profits the stock was watered, being increased from $36,000,000 to $54,000,000. On this latter amount the company has just paid 6 per cent.

It may be taken for granted that sleeping car rates, under the combine, will not come down one cent. Why should they? The trust is not a philanthrophic institution. This particular trust has gotten hold of a gold mine—the traveling public—and it will be "good business" to work it for all it will yield.

THE MILK IN THE COCOANUT.

One more record-breaking advancement in the Sunday Post-Dispatch's series of remarkable business gains was scored last Sunday.

The total gain in the Sunday Post-Dispatch's advertising over the corresponding Sunday of last year was 42 columns, as compared with a gain of 4 columns by the Republic and a loss of 4 columns by the Globe-Democrat.

In local advertising—the announcements of the merchants of St. Louis, which is the test of advertising value—the Sunday Post-Dispatch gained over the corresponding Sunday of last year 24 columns, the Republic gained nothing and the Globe-Democrat lost 4 columns.

Of want advertisements, which chronicle the varied wants of the people of the city and leadership in which is regarded as the sure proof of a newspaper's popularity with the reading public, the Sunday Post-Dispatch contained 37 columns to the Globe-Democrat's 30 and the Republic's 23.

Business men want the worth of their money in advertising. Advertising value is measured by the quantity and quality of circulation. The Sunday Post-Dispatch has the largest and best circulation of any newspaper west of the Mississippi. Its sales within the city of St. Louis equal those of both the Globe-Democrat and Republic put together. That is the milk in the cocoanut.

British military experts think no decisive fight has yet taken place in the Transvaal. A number of "decisive fights" are likely to be necessary before the Boer decides to give up his gun. Before Mr. McKinley began to "swing around the circle," the people of the United States were as loyal and self-sacrificing in all that pertains to their country as they are now. PRETTY FRENCH IDEA FOR A SHIRT-WAIST.

WHERE METAL NEVER RUSTS.

A curious phenomenon is that metal never rusts in the waters of Lake Titicaca. You can throw in a chain or an anchor or any article of ordinary iron and let it lie for weeks, and when you haul it up it will be as clean and bright as when it came from the foundry. And, what is stranger still, rust that has been formed upon metallic objects elsewhere will peel off when immersed in its waters. This is frequently noticed by railway and steamship men. Rusty car wheels and rails, and even machinery, can be brightened by soaking them in the waters of Lake Titicaca.

VEST POCKET DRINKS.

One of the latest German inventions, report tells us seriously, is beer lozenges. These are made of the powder obtained by evaporating lager beer, and contain all the ingredients of this popular beverage. The only needful thing to turn them into a sparkling ale is to dissolve them in water in which some carbonic acid gas has been added. This will, of course, be represented by ordinary soda water, and if the idea is practicable, which we very much doubt, says an exchange, a fresh era will be opened for the leading German drink.

MY LIFE.

Whether my heart be glad or no,

A good many of these clubs have already come into existence there, a St. Joseph paper says.

REUNITED — THE DAY'S LOVE STORY.

"FOR the land's sake, pa," called out Mrs. Drusilla Gladden to her husband, as he wiped his feet on a piece of carpet at the kitchen door, "I thought you'd never get in. Guess who sent me a letter. You'd never think in a month of Sundays. It's from Devah Bland—my cousin Devah."

Pa gave a smile of interest and rubbed his hands.

"Well, I swan, now! What has Devy got to say for himself?"

"He's coming to Ohio to visit. He'll be here next week. What do you think of that?"

Pa pulled off his boots contentedly.

"I won't be sorry to see Devy. We war in school together. What say? Is he doing well?"

"Doing well, but his wife's dead; been dead two year or more. I bet you a great deal, pa, he's on the warpath. And to think Angeline Culver's visiting around here just now, and she's a widder. Pa, it looks like the p'intin's of Providence, don't it?"

Mrs. Gladden smiled benignly on her husband and he on her. They were in love with each other and had been for twenty years.

"It truly does," replied pa, "it truly does. Jest think how those two courted over three years, wasn't it? I hold the split was all Angeline's folks' fault, wasn't it?"

"Now hurry up dinner and write Devy a letter tellin' him he must come right here an' we won't take no fer an answer. I'll hitch up the cutter and we'll go over to town an' engage Angeline for the whole endurin' week."

The two were as excited as children. The letter had to be strong enough to suit pa and was the labor of an hour for Mrs. Gladden ere it suited him. Dinner over, they tucked themselves into a green sleigh and drove over to New California.

"We'll stop on the way," said the small and rosy man. "I feel so anxious to get hold of Angeline."

Angeline Culver—Angeline Porter that was—was visiting at old Dr. Norman's. She and Cissy Norman had always been close friends. She came out to the sleigh to speak to Mrs. Gladden. She was quite dressy and had on a pink house sacque, trimmed with white lace. She had tied a little white fascinator over her brown waves.

"I was 'lowin' to go over to DennisDaodna's next week," she said, in her soft, comfortable voice, "but if you make a point of it I guess I can put them off."

Pa Gladden was so anxious that his feet danced up and down in the snow.

"O, we want you real bad next week, Angeline! We been waitin' an' expectin' till we're set on it special. Do say you'll come."

"I believe pa'll burst if you don't come, Angeline," said his wife; "he gets so set on anything."

"Well, I will," assented the widow. "I used to have good times at your house when I was a girl. I never have forgotten them."

• • • • • • •

He brought Angeline and her valises back in an hour. Mrs. Gladden rejoiced in her womanly beauty. She kissed her as tenderly as if she had been a young girl when she helped her in. Angeline's face beamed.

"How nice you've made everything for me!" she cried. "It is like a home-coming." Her face grew thoughtful. "It makes me think of the old times—old friends."

"Well, just settle down and make yourself at home," said pa, coming in. "I have to be gone an hour or two. You and ma can have a good old talk."

A while later he was stamping off the falling snow on the platform of the station. A tall, bronzed man alighted from the express and pa met him, so eager he almost cried over him as he shook hands.

Alas! alas! All pa's finesse and subtle phrases were forgotten. He was as nervous as a woman. Finally he reined in Dolly almost in sight of the house.

"Devy," he quavered, "I always felt so sorrowful 'bout you an' Angeline Porter's break-off. You war so happy together when you was young. Devy, I've got Angeline here. She air a widow; she air a finer woman 'n you could see in a day's travel. It air the desire of my heart to bring you two together."

The man beside him grew pale and gasped; then he wrung the mittened hand.

Good Ma Gladden came out to the sleigh. She, too, had forgotten her part. She had been crying and broke down.

"Please 'scuse Angeline," she said, brokenly. "She is there in the parlor. Dont' you want to go in, Devah? I guess you needn't be afeard."

The tall man strode past her, his own eyes misty. The wedded couple left on the steps were not ashamed to [illegible] with tears and smiles.—The Columbian.

PETIE QUINN ON DEWEY.

The Ragger Philosopher Tells What Came of A Discussion on The Great Admiral.

I ain't been aroun' th' corner these las' couplee nights—I been in bed, fer me mug didn't look like me own 'n I mighta been pinched fer some other guy.

That's th' first time I ever got th' worst of a battle, but I got it good 'n plenty, so I'm up whit me handicap. I lost some o' me repetashun in that battle—'n most lost me patriotism also.

It's pretty tough fer a guy like me t' get th' greasy end o' th' stick, but "it's th' exception which proves th' rule"—er sumpthin' like that, so I guess I'm still it.

Mickie Flynn win th' battle 'n so I takes off me lid t' Mickie—'till I meets him whit me gang, 'n then, well, he won't have nuttin' left t' put his lid back on.

It happened about a argament—a argament about Dewey. I win th' argament, so I'll spiel about that. I guess Mickie has told most everybody about th' battle by this time.

It happened like this. Me 'n Mickie 'n some more o' th' gang which is out wuz greasin' th' skillet back o' Scotty's when Mickie says it wuz my turn t' buy 'n I says it wuzn't.

We starts chewin' about it 'n Mickie says, he says, "Yer like Dewey!"

"Soitn'ly," says me. "You can't get anny argament on that." That wuz my round 'n he come back at me whit:

"Yer always lookin' fer th' best of it."

"Yu win again," says me, "an' I always get it whit you."

Well, some other guy buys t' save splittin' up th' bunch, seein' that Mickie wuz gettin' so full he would soon be buyin' all th' time.

After Mickie hit th' skillet he says t' me: "Petie," he says, "this is straight. They're gointa spoil this Dewey. He's all right, I ain't got anny kick on him, but they're spoilin' him 'n spendin' coin on him which they oughta take th' tax off o' beer whit."

"How d'yu mean?" says me.

"Well, in th' first place, he's gettin' his salary, ain't he?" says Mickie.

"An' ain't he gettin' a big salary, at that?

"An' ain't he been gettin' that large, juicy salary ever since he wuz a kid 'n' had his board paid at th' Naval Academy?"

Soit'nly that wuz all true 'n' I said so. Then Mickie gets up 'n' sticks out one mitt like Mayor Ziegenhein when he's makin' a speech 'n' held on to th' fence whit th' other 'n' hollers:

"Well, what did he get it fer?"

That wuz a cinch, 'n' I told him, "t' be a officer in th' navy."

"Well, what else?" hollered Mickie, still whit his mitt out like Ziegenhein 'n' holdin' t' th' fence.

I give up 'n' Mickie says, "t' fight. He wuz put in trainin' by th' Guverment t' fight."

All th' gang said "soit'nly," which wuz true.

"Now," says Mickie, "that is what I wanted you t' say. He wuz paid t' fight

"Well, he never did fight t' amount t' onything before, did he? He just wuz waitin' fer a chancet t' do what he wuz paid fer ever since he wuz a kid.

"He hadda long vacation 'n come pretty near gettin' off th' navy list whitout gettin' a chance t' do this job which he wuz paid fer.

"He wuz a fighter. That's all th' wolk he hadda do, 'n he only did it oncet. Now looka me, looka you, looka all us poor raggers 'n ever'body else. We got some other job besides fightin' 'n we gott it t' do every day.

"We don't get no four-horse carriages t' ride in 'n no home in Washington. We don't get no prize money fer wolkin 'n we been wolkin' all th' time while he's been waitin' fer th' job t' come along.

"Now, I think he got well paid right straight along 'n that wuz all that wuz comin' him."

Then Mickie started t' spiel ragtime about Dewey 'n th' battle started. I made a great mistake. Mickie wuzn't so full as I thought 'n right wuzn't might whit me by a whole lotta punches.

I think Mickie wanted t' say that Dewey just done his duty 'n th' people oughta let it go at that. I know I oughta let it go at that.

POST-DISPATCH HINTS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

ALMOND CHEESE CAKES.—Put one pint of milk over the fire in a double boiler. When hot add the strained juice of one lemon and cook until the curd separates from the whey. Strain through cheese cloth and when the curd is cold add the beaten yolks of three eggs, two tablespoonfuls of butter, creamed, one-half of a cupful of milk, one-half of a cupful of finely chopped blanched almonds and sufficient crumbled stale sponge cake to make a rather thick batter. Add the whites of the eggs whipped to a stiff froth, fill shells with the mixture and bake in a quick oven.

SAUCE TARTARE.—Put the yolks of two raw eggs into a basin with half a teaspoonful of salt, a little pepper and half a teaspoonful each of French and English made mustard. Then add about half a pint of salad oil, drop by drop, stirring the sauce one way all the time. When it is very stiff add one teaspoonful each of tarragon, chili and malt vinegar, and eight or ten drops of lemon juice. Stir in half a tablespoonful of mixed chopped capers and gherkins, and one tablespoonful of chopped tarragon, chervill and parsley. This sauce should be made very stiff.

PIGS' FEET, SPANISH STYLE.—Place six well-cleaned pigs' feet in a kettle of boiling water over the fire, cook half hour, then remove the pigs' feet and plunge them into cold water; let them lay for a few minutes, return the feet to the kettle, cover with fresh boiling water, add one tablespoonful salt, half teaspoonful pepper, two onions, one bay leaf, four cloves and twelve whole peppers; add half pint vinegar and cook till the feet are tender. In the meantime place a saucepan with one tablespoonful butter and one fine chopped onion over the fire, cook three minutes, without browning, add half bay leaf, two cloves, six whole peppers and one large tablespoonful flour, stir and cook two minutes; then add one pint of broth from the pigs' feet, cook five minutes, strain the sauce into another saucepan, add twelve stoned olives, half cupful fine chopped almonds, one tablespoonful capers, half teaspoonful beef extract, two tablespoonfuls lemon juice, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, cook five minutes. Lay the pigs' feet on to a hot dish and pour the sauce over it.

CAR SICKNESS.—Any remedy given for seasickness will apply, the maladies having a common cause and character. Physicians often prescribe champagne frappé. A porous plaster on the pit of the stomach, or anything that will give extra heat there, is said to be excellent. A common preventive is to take something to act upon the liver a few days before starting on a journey.

POLISHED LINEN.—Melt together one ounce of white wax and two ounces of spermaceti. To sufficient starch for a dozen shirtbosoms add a piece of the above "enamel" the size of a hazelnut. There are also polishing irons for polishing linen said to be very satisfactory.

ANGEL CAKE.—There are almost as many recipes for combining the few ingredients in angel cake as there are cooks. The following is vouched for: Beat the whites of 13 eggs to a stiff froth, but do not overheat. Sift in these whites one teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Have ready one and one-half tumblers of granulated sugar four times sifted, also one tumbler of flour four times sifted. Sift first the sugar, then the flour into the eggs, folding, not stirring, in the latter, with the sugar put in one teaspoonful of vanilla. Bake in a moderate oven 50 minutes, putting an asbestos lid under the pan. When done invert the pan, covering it to make it sweat. The eggs should be very cold.

JUST A MINUTE WITH THE POST-DISPATCH HUMORISTS.

A BOOKISH BARD.

When I am Haggard and my Harte seems nearly rent in Twain,
Or when I'm Riley through and through and feel like raising Caine.
I seek no consolation such as draughts of wine can yield,
But take his "Western Verses" down and laugh a while with Field.

When I am hungry, I have Lamb and
  Bacon, Hogg and Roe,
And many other kinds of fare which bookish people know.
I have a Butler, Grimm and Gray, of Sterne and studious look,
And my cuisine's presided over by Rose
  Terry Cook.

Whene'er I feel disposed to Reid, a King-ly
  joy is mine;
No heart is lighter, and none Burns with feeling more divine.
My pleasing task is never Dunne, for Nye me on the floor
Are forty volumes still unread, and still
  I pine for Moore.

I raise the very Dickens when the careless,
  lumpy maid
Attempts to straighten up my room, the
  place's looks to Ade;
And yet, at most, I'm thankful, for, surrounded by those tomes,
How I do pity in my heart the men who have no Holmes!

A Kentucky Omen.

From the Louisville Times.

From beneath the platform from which Hon. Frank Peak was delivering a Democratic speech in Trimble County a few days ago rolled a white dog and a black one locked in a political debate of their own. There was a movement on the part of the crowd to separate the disputants and restore order, but Mr. Peak exclaimed: "Let 'em fight it out—the white dog typifies Goebel and the black one Taylor!" A ring was formed and every precaution taken to insure a fair fight, when in jumped a yaller dog and doubled teams on the white. "That's all right," exclaimed the orator of the occasion, "the yaller dog's Brown, and Goebel'll do 'em both up." And he did, in short order. The crowd cheered the good omen, and Mr. Peak completed his address without further interruption.

The Limit of Extortion.

From the Kansas City Star.

The assumption that sleeping car rates will not be advanced by the proposed consolidation of the Pullman and Wagner companies is based on the fact that they have already reached the limit of extortion.

GIFTS FOR DEWEY.

Furnish Dewey's House.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I think that when Admiral Dewey comes here the citizens should be prepared to present him with receipted bills for a handsome lot of furniture, made to order, sufficient to furnish the house given him by American patriots. In case the visit is postponed till spring this will give time to have the furniture designed and made, if those interested will organize and secure the necessary amount of money by popular subscription. Religious Books for Dewey.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

What can St. Louis give Admiral Dewey as a souvenir of his visit to your city? I suggest that he be given a finely bound Bible, also a prayer book, as I believe he is a member of the Episcopal Church.

I believe as yet nothing of that nature has been tendered to him.

What is home without the Bible, a wife and mother? ALICE V. THOMAS.

Carriage and Horses.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I think the next nicest and appropriate souvenir to present to Admiral Dewey would be a handsome carriage and horses. Respectfully,

A Bible.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I think a nice, plain Bible would be the most appropriate gift for the honored Admiral Dewey. A WOMAN.

Clock and Water Set.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In reply to your request for suggestions as to an appropriate present for Admiral Dewey, I would suggest that a clock of handsome design and a silver water set would be appropriate and fitting the furnishing of a new home. A. B. D.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

(This column is open to everybody who has a complaint to make, a grievance to ventilate, information to give or a subject of general interest to discuss, or a public service to acknowledge, and who can put the idea into the fewest words possible. Letters from persons seeking employment cannot be given place in this column.)

The Northeast Prophets.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Perhaps the presumptuous prognosticator, "Old Hunter," who predicted October sharp frosts that nobody has seen, and who predicts a long and severe winter, doesn't know that the weather prophets of Northwest Missouri have announced a mild and short winter. THE PLUG PROPHET.

Overhead Signs.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Perhaps the accident yesterday at Sixth and St. Charles streets, in which three men were injured, one perhaps fatally, will move the sluggish city officials to at least make a pretense of enforcing the city ordinance relating to these projecting signs, of which there are thousands in the city. Probably a score of people have been hurt within the past year because of them.

SPORTS OF THE DAY

CHOYNSKI AND MOORE.

THE CALIFORNIA BOXER SCORES A VERY EASY VICTORY.

HOGAN OUTCLASSED O'KEEFE.

Details of the St. Louis Athletic Club's Second Tournament in the Fourteenth Street Theater.

"It is the little taps that hurt, those that you don't hear."

So said Kid McCoy as he saw Joe Choynski knock out Dick Moore in the third round of their boxing contest at the Fourteenth Street Theater on Monday night.

The "little taps" which Choynski gave Moore could not be heard by the people seated in the balcony.

They looked like love taps and there were some persons uncharitable enough to charge Moore with "lyin' down."

As a matter of fact the taps in question put Moore in such shape that it took his seconds and several buckets of ice water some time to bring him back to consciousness.

Moore is plucky enough, but he was no match for the California boy, who a few years ago was considered a match for any man living.

That Moore is game was proved a long while ago when three times he took an awful trouncing from Kid McCoy.

McCoy first met him at Louisville in September, 1895, and finished him in six rounds. Then in Brooklyn the same year McCoy defeated Moore in 10 rounds. At Buffalo, July 21, 1897, McCoy and Moore again met and this last time the Kid put him out in two rounds.

So the man who faced Choynski Monday night, while no novice, was outclassed by the Californian, and while he was game and willing enough, he had no earthly chance to win.

Choynski won in a walk pulled up, and at no stage of the game did he appear to put on steam or extend himself.

This time Moore was in perfect shape physically and the drubbing he received did him but little harm.

The managers of last night's contest were again unfortunate. Billy Lambert, who, with Tommy Hogan, was to furnish the curtain raiser, came to the front at the last moment and said that his physician had told him that there was something the matter with his right arm and that he had better not fight.

Referee Tim Hurst said to the spectators: "Lambert having perhaps read about Jeffries, has hurt his arm and his physician has advised him not to go against Hogan. At that, if you insist on it, we'll have him go on."

The spectators shouted, "No, no."

"Then," said Tim, "for a curtain raiser we'll give you a bout between Tommy Hogan and Jack O'Keefe. Jack has boxed such men as Oscar Gardner and he ought to put up a good bout."

The announcement was received with cheers. O'Keefe, however, failed to come up to expectations, and he proved to be no match at all for Hogan. The latter used O'Keefe as a punching bag and near the close of the fifth round dealt him a swinging blow on the right temple which rendered him unconscious.

Betting on the Jeffries-Sharkey fight is now getting lively around New York. Ten to seven, with Jeffries bringing the top figure, is the latest quotation.

Next Saturday night at Chicago Bob Fitzsimmons will go six rounds with Jeff Thorne.

This will be Fitzsimmons' first appearance in Chicago since he made such a terrific ending of his bout with Abe Cougle, the big South Water street boxer. Thorne has never appeared in the West. He hails originally from Johannesburg, South Africa, and his boxing in America has been confined to New York. Thorne came to America several months ago, and in his few engagements has not shown himself to be a top-notcher. He is said to be extremely clever, like the majority of English boxers who come to this country, but seems short in hitting power. He met "Kid" McCoy at the Lenox Aathletic Club in New York a few months ago and was easily disposed of. Later he defeated Dick O'Brien in 12 rounds at the [illegible] Athletic Club.

The determinatio[illegible] re-enter the ring is no[illegible], as the former champion has announced several times that he would get to work again soon.

AUTEN OF CHICAGO.

For Various Reasons He Is Going to Sell His Interest in Pittsburg Club.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—P. L. Auten of this city is now in Pittsburg winding up a baseball deal by the terms of which he expects to transfer to President Kerr of the Pittsburg Club the block of stock in that organization which Auten and his associates now own. If Kerr succeeds in buying out Auten he will be the sole owner of this valuable plant and franchise, and it is safe to say that if he does gain absolute control many radical changes will be made in the policy of the club.

The practical retirement of Auten from the National League at this time is significant, to say the least. Although he has always made it a point to keep in the background, he has been a potent factor in the politics of the game ever since the consolidation of the old Brotherhood and the present League. Men who are close to him claim that Auten's latest move in disposing of his baseball holdings in Pittsburg does not mean that the man has tired of the sport, or has any intention of retiring from the game. They say, furthermore, that before the opening of next season Auten will be financially interested in one and possibly two clubs of the new League. In a word, so the story runs, he has decided to join hands with Adrian Constantine Anson, and is expected to furnish the backing for the team Anson intends to put in Chicago.

If the "Grand Old Man" of baseball has succeeded in interesting Auten in his scheme, it is safe to assert that the local end of the much-talked-about new League will not lack money and incidentally clever business management. There has never been a year since Phil Auten broke into baseball that he has not made money and big money at that. Evidently the promoters of the new organization have given the Chicago man convincing proof of their sincerity and ability to carry out their plans, or he would not have considered the proposition to sell his stock in the Pittsburg Club.

At the same time there is another angle to this new and interesting baseball deal.

The Great Old Ordinaries.

Visitors to Forest Park Sunday morning were much interested in what to some was a novel sight of the annual parade of the A. O. G. O. O., a club composed of riders of the old style high bicycle. Over twenty of the old fellows were out and made the run to Clayton, where the annual dinner was given at Autenreith's. The principal fun was to see the riders go up "Nigger" Hill at the park. Messrs. Jordan, Belding, Wolzendorf, Alex Laing and Rotty were the successful climbers. After the dinner the following officers were elected: H. W. Belding, president; Eli Silberberg, secretary-treasurer; A. L. Jordan, captain, and Burt Taylor, lieutenant.

The Maddenvilles Won.

The Maddenvilles defeated the St. Anns by a score of 19 to 10 in a seven-inning game at Maddenville Sunday. Errors—St. Anns, 12; Maddenville, 3. Hits—St. Anns, 9; Maddenville, 14. The St. Anns lay their defeat to the fact that several of their regular men were not playing and their substitutes lacked team practice.

WITH THE RUGBY PLAYERS.

The C. B. C. Team of This Season a Great Improvement Over Last Year's.

The improvement of the Christian Brothers' College eleven of this year over the team of 1898 will greatly add to the interest of football this season.

When the college eleven lines up against the Washington University team on Thanksgiving Day it promises to give a better account of itself than it has in the past.

The team this year is heavier than that of '98 and their work this early in the season is an improvement over that of last year's team.

Swain plays full back in great style and is as good a kicker as there is in St. Louis.

Capt. Joe Nutz is not lacking in anything, but has a great head and knows how to use it.

Patrick is playing a great game and to use the words of a well-known player, he is the most promising half back in St. Louis.

Brockmeyer and Herdman tackle well. The former has a bad shoulder and will hardly be able to go the season. The team is a good one and no mistake. They will meet the "Tigers" from the Missouri University on Saturday next and will prove their worth there.

"Have you ever noticed," said Dave Blanton, an authority on the game, "that the players of the local teams never use their free hand to ward off interference when carrying the ball. In Eastern games I have seen a player bowl over three and four men who try to tackle him before he is downed. Here in St. Louis the man who carries the ball depends on the interference of his teammates to make a gain instead of shifting for himself and not being downed without a fight. The use of your free hand helps at all times and would improve the tackling of players who have a weakness for striking their man high."

Phil Smith of the West Ends has improved in his kicking this season, and is playing an allround good game.

The victory of the Missouri Tigers over Nebraska puts the former eleven in a good light. The game they played clearly demonstrated their strength and showed them to be lacking in no department whatever. The so-called green players are nearly all "phenoms."

Hoolan, who plays back of the line with the West Ends, is a comer. The little fellow is generally at the bottom of the pile in every scrimmage and it seems impossible to hurt him. His tackling is good and interference better.

Wisconsin's showing against Yale on Saturday will give the Eastern critics an idea of what the Western elevens are made of. Though they were defeated, they played Yale the hardest game that eleven has ever taken part in and gave the enthusiasts the game of their lives.

The Missouri Tigers defeated the Tarkio eleven at Tarkio, Mo., Monday by a score of 23 to 0.

Hartung, M. S. U.'s left tackle, who is playing his first season, is said to be the coming player of the West. In the games against Nebraska on Saturday last Hartung was sent against the line time after time and not once failed to gain. As a tackle he is a revelation.

Warrensburg's Normal eleven defeated the Fort Scott, Kan., eleven Monday by a score of 12 to 0 at Warrensburg, Mo.

WITH THE BALL PLAYERS.

The Official Batting Averages Show Delhanty and Burkett in the Lead.

The official batting averages, published on Monday morning, show that Delehanty and Burkett are the leading batsmen of the National League.

Delehanty's average was .408 and Burkett's .402. Hickman, McGraw and Lajoie follow them.

Buelow jumped into prominence as the premier hitter at St. Louis, but he could not play in games enough to get a place in the records.

In the League this past season six triple plays were made, the performers being Baltimore, St. Louis, Louisville, Cincinnati and Cleveland.

The Brooklyns are the fifth championship team Ned Hanlon has led to victory, for, as captain of the old Detroits, he was practically their leader.

Manager Patsy Donovan of the Pittsburg team has gone to Hot Springs, Ark., for a short time. He will spend the winter at his home in Massachusetts.

No less than six ex-members of the Washington team helped to bring the championship to Brooklyn this season. And the Senators could only finish in eleventh place.

On Monday last Tannehill, Bowerman, Ely, Billy Rhines of the Pittsburg Club and Capt. Dufly of the Lake Erie & Pittsburg Railroad started out for a three weeks' hunt near Mount Clemens.

Freeman of the Washingtons has drawn more fines than any other member of the team, with the exception of Dick Padden, who, as captain of the team, doubtless has his fines paid by the club.

"Rube" Waddell is as effective in the big League as he was in the minor leagues. Singularly the Milwaukee players were the only ones in the Western League which were able to successfully gauge his delivery.

Tim Murnane hints that there will be some trading between Boston and Cincinnati this winter. Hamilton and Bergen are the Boston men who will be put on the bargain counter sure; and there may be others.

JAKE SCHAEFER IN NEW YORK.

He Is There to Cross Cues With "Student" Slossom.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Jake Schaefer, the "wizard," has arrived here and will resume practice to-morrow at Myers' academy for his billiard match with "Student" Slosson. This is the final week of preparation for the big professional contest to be held at the Madison Square Garden Concert Hall Oct. 30 and 31 and Nov. 1. The match will be 900 points up, cushion caroms, 300 points being played each evening. Schaefer has been practicing with Carter, Jevne, Catton and other Western professionals, while the student has worked with Shortstops McLaughlin and Gallagher.

MEN CURED FREE.

A most successful remedy has been found for sexual weakness, such as impotency, varicocele, shrunken organs, nervous debility, lost manhood, night emissions, premature discharge and all other results of self-abuse or excesses. It cures any case of the difficulty, never fails to restore the organs to full natural strength and vigor. The Doctor who made this wonderful discovery wants to let every man know about it. He will therefore send the receipt giving the various ingredients to be used so that all men at a trifling expense can cure themselves. He sends the receipt free, and all the reader need do is to send his name and address to L. W. Knapp, M. D., 1686 Hull Bldg., Detroit, Mich., requesting the free receipt as reported in this paper. It is a generous offer, and all men ought to be glad to have such an opportunity.

THE ASSOCIATION.

THAT FOOTBALL ORGANIZATION TO MEET THIS WEEK.

KANE'S CASE TO BE PASSED ON.

Mike Hogan, the Cyclists' Great Half Back, Has Decided to Retire From the Game.

The Association of Football Clubs will meet this week and try to straighten out the troubles that have already made their appearance in the ranks of their playing teams.

The action of Kane, who left the Shamrocks without a word of warning, will be one of the main questions that will come up for settlement.

It appears that Kane is determined not to play with the Shamrocks and it looks as though he was awfully anxious to play with the Cycling Club.

Manager Cahill of the Shamrocks has declared that he will not release Kane to any one, but rather than have the association lose such a valuable player, Cahill, for the good of the game at large, may relent and let Kane go where he pleases.

Cahill and his Shamrock team in any event could scarcely afford to keep an unwilling players in their ranks and that would be one good reason for letting Kane go in any direction he pleases.

There is no place on earth where Kane would do more good just now than with the Cycling Club and as he seems eager to play on that team it might not be a bad idea to let him go where he pleases.

One thing, however, should be done in that event and that is if the Shamrocks are to lose Kane they should be given two or three players in exchange for him.

Some of the clubs of the Association have put in claims for players that they have no use for and this surplus material should be turned over to the clubs that need them.

The West Ends last Sunday proved that they were crackerjacks in every direction and they would do well to stand pat on their present playing team and turn over all their extra players to the league.

If this is done it will be possible to even up all the teams in the Association race to make every game they play worth looking at.

Mike Hogan, the Cyclists' great halfback, has decided to quit the game for a while at least. Hogan is one of the youngest players in the league, having been playing but four years. Last year he played with the Shamrocks, and his fine work against such men as Phil Cavanaugh, Corcoran and other West End stars was what helped the Shamrocks to land the pennant. He ranks with Finnegan, who is regarded as the strongest halfback who ever played the Association game in St. Louis. In Hogan, the game will lose one of its greatest players.

TIPS FROM THE TURF.

Fred Foster's Old Luck Has Come Back to Him.

This is the dull season of the year in the local racing line. The St. Louis Fair Association will not announce its list of stakes for 1900 until Dec. 1. The stakes in number and the amount they will represent will be about the same as last year and the association will run about the same number of days as it did then. The association's directors have already come to an agreement on this score. The racing in St. Louis next year therefore will continue for 90 days, from May 15, and then close. Last year there were 18 stakes in all and there will be about that number this year. The St. Louis Derby for 1900 was announced last year. It will be over the regular Derby course, a mile and a half, and will be worth $5000. There are 121 nominations to it.

President Aull is out of the city and will be away for two weeks. During his absence, Johnny Hackmeister has charge of everything about the Fair Grounds.

Fred Foster's old luck seems to have come back to him. At an Eastern track the other day he had two of his horses killed. On Monday, Yellow Tail, the colt he bought at San Francisco last winter, ran five furlongs at Harlem in :59¼, and now he owns a better bread winner than ever.

The meetings next month at Atlanta and Birmingham may open a new field for the owners of thoroughbreds.

Jockey Joe Scherer, a very familiar figure at the St. Louis tracks, is now at Latonia.

Henry Gerhardy, who, years ago, was one of the foremost jockeys in the West, when he rode for the then powerful stable of Campbell & Hankins and had for his mounts such cracks as Terra Cotta, Santaline, Wheeler T., Little Minch, Macbeth II. and other stars, was at Latonia Saturday. Mr. Gerhard long ago "grew" out of the riding profession, but he has never quit the flyers entirely. His most recent connection with the racing game has been in the capacity of clerk of the scales, having filled that position on the tracks of the Canadian circuit the past season. He is now about to try his hand at another branch of race-track work. The ex-jockey has been appointed starter for the meetings at Atlanta and Birmingham. The Atlanta meeting is to begin Wednesday and continue seven days. The Birmingham meeting opens Nov. 7, and if it comes up to expectations in the way of success, it will be continued right up to the time for the opening of the big winter meeting at New Orleans.

The Latonia meeting will come to a close on Saturday. The fixed events that yet remain to be decided are the Covington Autumn Stakes, which will be run to-day, the Kenton and the Kentucky Central. The Covington is a selling sweepstakes for 2-year-olds at five and one-half furlongs, with $700 added. The starters will be:

Larkspur	98	Unsightly	108
John Yerkes	105	Dissolute	109
Shrove Tuesday	104	Charlie O'Brien	110
Reseda	106	Anna Bain	110

On Thursday the stake at Latonia, which is considered by many the most interesting run at that meeting, is to be decided. It is the sprinters' event, the Kenton, for 3-year-olds and upward, at six furlongs. Among the 44 entered are such speedy ones as The Star of Bethlehem, Semper Eadem, Carlotta C., Tom Collins, Gibraltar, Harry Duke, The Barrister, Eugenia Wilkes, Abe Furst, Alleviate, Ben Bramble, Belle of Memphis, Onomastus, Tulane, Han d'Or, John Bright and others. There is a lot of speed represented in that bunch and if only a fast track is had that race gives promise of proving sensational.

JEFFRIES IN FINE SHAPE.

He Is Now Down to 205 Pounds and in Perfect Fighting Trim.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Billy Brady, Jim Jeffries' manager, paid the champion another visit to-day.

Barring a little lingering soreness in the muscles of the injured arm the champion is certainly in fine fettle, and there was no disguising the satisfaction with which Brady surveyed the handsome figure of the giant. When they first met this morning Brady, with a serious look, said:

"On the level, Jim, how do you feel?"

"O, I'm fine; never felt better in my life," replied Jeffries. "I took a long run on the road toward Long Branch this morning with Tommy Ryan and find my wind to be perfect. Why, do you know, I made one run of three miles at as fast a clip as I could go and never felt the least effect of the sprint on my bellows? Say, if the fellow licks me he will do the trick when I have the best form I was ever in."

Brady then spoke of Dr. Freenthal and said:

"The doctor came up to the city last night to see me," when the champion chipped in with:

"O, tell that doctor to stay away. I don't need him. I'm getting along all right and to-morrow I am going to start in again with my usual course of exercise."

Jeffries is down to 205 pounds. His every act and word bespeak the confidence he possesses and his appearance and massive form are mutely eloquent of the splendid physical development of this gladiator. He looks and moves exactly as he is—the perfectly trained, agile athlete. His muscles are firm, but pliable, and his ponderous fists are as hard as adamant.

Thomas Sharkey spent a quiet day at his training camp down at New Dorp to-day. He has decided to take things easy until the final week, when he will resume his regular routine schedule, which includes several hours of hard exercise daily. Beginning to-morrow he will increase his road work and give less time to indoor exercise. He is down to weight and his main object now is to develop his wind apparatus. With his wind improved Sharkey says he will be able to whip two men in one ring Nov. 1.

SHOT HIS NEIGHBOR

JOHN WILKINS THOUGHT ALBERT FAVELL A BURGLAR.

FAVELL WAS DERANGED.

He Was Clamoring at Wilkins' Back Door for Money When He Was Fired Into in the Darkness.

John Wilkins of 1625 Biddle street shot and perhaps mortally wounded his next door neighbor neighbor, Albert Favell, whom he mistook for a burglar.

The shooting occurred early Tuesday morning, while Favell was standing on the back porch of his home shouting: "Your money or your life!" Both men are colored.

It was shortly after 3 o'clock when Mrs. Wilkins awakened her husband.

"John," she said, "I think there must be robbers outside, for I have heard some one calling 'money' for the last 10 minutes."

Wilkins jumped out of bed and arming himself with a revolver opened the kitchen door. In the darkness he could barely see the outlines of the man on the porch.

"What are you doing there?" he called.

Favell cried out a demand for money.

Wilkins clicked his pistol twice and the supposed burglar fell unconscious at his feet.

As the shots sounded, Mrs. Wilkins ran out, with lamp in hand. Its flickering rays shone on the prostrate body. The woman sank back with a scream of anguish.

"John," she exclaimed, "you have killed Mr. Favell."

The police were notified and the injured man was conveyed in an ambulance to the City Hospital.

It was then ascertained that Favell had for sometime been suffering from delusions of wealth. He imagined he was Monte Cristo and declared his ambition was to become the richest man in the world.

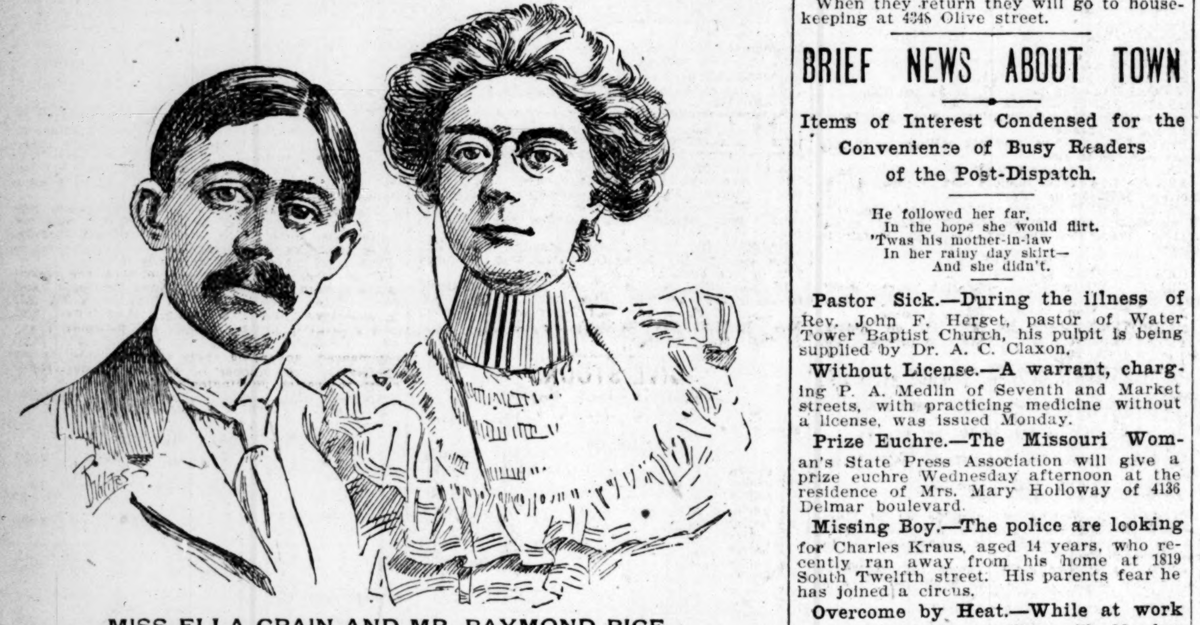
It appears his family made a serious mistake in not having him examined. Wilkins says his friend's derangement never entered his mind. He adds that at first he thought he heard sounds of scuffling and when he saw the man approaching he fired in self-defense.

The bullets entered Favell's abdomen. Dr. Babler says he has a small chance for recovery.

Wilkins was locked up, but the police investigation shows he was not to blame.

THE RICE-CRAIN WEDDING.

It Will Be Quietly Celebrated at St. Mark's Episcopal Church Next Wednesday.



MISS ELLA CRAIN AND MR. RAYMOND RICE.

Mr. Raymond Rice of the Mercantile Cigar Co. and Miss Ella Crain will be married Wednesday evening at St. Mark's Episcopal Church. The couple will leave immediately for the East to pass their honeymoon. On their return they will go to housekeeping at 4378 Maryland avenue.

The wedding will be strictly private, on account of the bride's family being in mourning.

Metcalfe—Ellis.

The marriage of Miss Belle Ellis, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Ellis of 4221 West Belle place, to Mr. Melville Lewis Metcalfe of Webster Groves will take place at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening at St. John's Methodist Church. Several hundred friends have been asked to the church, but only relatives and intimate friends to the house, where a small reception will be held after the ceremony.

The decorations are to be green and white at both places, and chrysanthemums, ferns and white roses will be used in forming this color combination.

At the church the ushers will be Mr. H. H. Wilson, Mr. Chiles Kelsey and Dr. Charles Gilsey, with Mr. Albert Engel as groomsman. Mr. Metcalfe's best man is to be his twin brother, Mr. Walter Metcalfe.

The bride's matron of honor will be her most intimate friend, Mrs. Hiram B. Morse, who was formerly Miss Bell. Mrs. Morse, whose wedding took place about a year ago, will wear her bridal gown of white satin, elaborately trimmed with point lace and pearls.

The two bridemaids, Misses Alice Metcalfe and Maude Garrison, will wear similar costumes of white organdie, over white silk, with trimmings of pink velvet and accordion-pleated ruffles. They will carry big English bouquets of bridemaid roses.

Miss Ellis' wedding gown is of white satin-striped taffeta, lined with white satin, the skirt en traine, and the corsage low and round, with rich trimmings of point lace and tulle.

The bridal bouquet is to be of superb Kaiserin roses.

After the reception, Mr. Metcalfe will take his bride east for a few weeks. When they return they will reside with the Ellis family at 4221 West Belle place.

Austin—Larew.

Miss Lulu Larew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Perrin Larew of 1232 King's Highway boulevard, will be married at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening to Dr. James Franklin Austin of this city. The ceremony will be performed at the bride's home by Rev. D. R. Dungan of the Mount Cabanne Christian Church, and only relatives and a few intimate friends will be present.

The parlors are to be beautifully decorated with vines and cut flowers, a canopy of chrysanthemums and asparagus ferns being erected in front of the fireplace.

Miss Larew will be attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Larew, as maid of honor, and Miss Leonide Girault as bridemaid. The former will wear white organdie over pink silk and the latter a similarly made gown of pink organdie over silk.

Mr. Charles Austin is to be the groom's best man, with Mr. Jim Pettus as groomsman.

The bride's wedding gown is to be of white Swiss organdie over taffeta, the corsage high and the skirt en traine. The entire costume is to be daintily trimmed with accordion pleated ruffles, edged with lace.

After a wedding supper, Dr. Austin and his bride will go East for a brief journey. They will be at home Tuesdays in November, at 4433 Morgan street.

Wirthlin—Sullivan.

Miss Wade Sullivan, daughter of Mrs. Malida J. Sullivan of the South Side, is to be married at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening to Mr. Louis Wirthlin, the ceremony being performed at the Sullivan residence, 2904 Henrietta street, by Rev. John Tannrath of St. Agnes' Catholic Church.

The wedding is to be a simple and quiet affair, with no guests save relatives and intimate friends.

Mr. Charles Weber will be best man and Miss Malida Sullivan will be maid of honor.

The bride, who is a blonde, petite and pretty, will wear a simple gown of white organdie and lace over white silk, and will carry white roses.

The maid of honor is to wear pink organdie over taffeta of the same shade, with trimmings of quilled ribbon.

After the wedding supper the young couple will go away for a brief wedding trip. When they return they will reside with the bride's mother.

Martin—Stinde.

Miss Louise Stinde, daughter of Mrs. C. R. Stinde of 4590 Page boulevard, will be married at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning to Mr. James Yeatman Martin of Clemens avenue, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Mr. Winchester, at the home of the bride's mother.

Because of the deaths since last April of five near relatives in both families, the wedding will be a very quiet affair. No cards have been issued and only members of the two families will be present.

The parlors are to be simply and beautifully decorated with smilax and palms interspersed with graceful clusters of pink and white roses and chrysanthemums.

The bride, who is an unusually pretty and brilliant girl, with dark hair and big, dark gray eyes, will wear a dainty bridal robe of white French organdie over a slip of the same, the skirt made tunic fashion, with a long court train and a flounce of accordeon-pleated organdie and lace around the edge. The waist is high in the neck and trimmed with some beautiful old Mechlin lace that formerly trimmed a gown in the trousseau of the bride's mother. Miss Stinde's bouquet is to be of carnot roses and maidenhair fern, and her veil, a specially long and voluminous one, will be fastened by a cluster of lilies of the valley.

Miss Helen Stinde, who will act as maid of honor, will wear a becoming gown of white organdie over pink silk, the skirt made en demi-train and finished with a full lace flounce and the corsage high, with unlined yoke and sleeves of lace. She will carry a big cluster of bridemaid roses.

Little Miss Elsie Martin, the groom's small sister, will carry the wedding ring on the stem of a big white rose. She will wear a lovely little frock of white silk and lace, with white slippers and stockings.

Mr. J. Edwin Cowen will be Mr. Martin's best man.

After a wedding breakfast the young couple will leave for the East, to be gone about two weeks.

When they return they will go to housekeeping at 4348 Olive street.

Mr. E. A. Earnest, of Hassler Mills, Ga., writes under date of August 21st, 1899:

"I am a merchant, sixty years old, and have had kidney trouble. I took three bottles of Warner's Safe Cure, and it worked like a charm from the first dose. I take great pleasure in recommending it. Mrs. C. Isenhower, of this place, who was cured by it ten years ago, is still hale and hearty, and always praising Safe Cure to her friends and neighbors. I think it is the finest preparation in the world for kidney and bladder troubles.

Reappointments.—The City Auditor has notified the heads of departments that all employes on the monthly pay rolls who are holding over from previous terms must be reappointed by Nov. 1 in order for them to figure on the pay rolls. This will necessitate the reappointment of about 500 firemen, to say nothing of the men in other departments.

Device That Worked.—An automatic fire alarm announced a fire in the Illinois House at the southwest corner of Broadway and Lucas avenue Monday night and brought out the department before the guests knew there was a fire in the house. The hotel is on the second floor, over Brandt's shoe store. At a certain temperature the device rings an alarm in the Fire Department headquarters.

THE SMALLEST BABY

BORN AT THE CITY HOSPITAL AND WEIGHS TWO POUNDS.

JNO. FRANCIS' ELECTRIC HEART.

Mrs. Ida Barron Accidentally Shot Herself Through the Hand in Her Husband's Pawn Shop.

The smallest baby in St. Louis was born at the City Hospital Tuesday morning. It is a boy and weighs two pounds.

The mother is Mrs. Addie Dean of 2211 Market street. She and baby are doing well. Dr. Scharff says the little atom of humanity gained two ounces in three hours. The tot was weighed on the druggists' scales.

"If he lives," said Mrs. Dean, "I'm going to call him Dewey."

Mrs. Ida Baron accidentally shot herself through the hand in her husband's pawnshop, 1523 Market street, Tuesday morning. She was taken to the hospital. Dr. Bejach says the wound is slight. She was taking the bullets from the revolver, which was being sold to her, when the accident happened.

John Robush, aged 41, who took morphine Monday afternoon with suicidal intent, is at the hospital and will recover.

He has a wife and family living in Indianapolis. He refuses to state why he tried to kill himself.

Johnnie Sweeney, aged 17, had a pain in the stomach Monday night and took some brandy to alleviate it. The remedy, John avers, was excellent, but the result very bad.

Inside of several minutes the pain was transferred to John's head, and when a policeman found him he was in a deplorable condition. He could hardly talk. He said the night air had made him hoarse.

At the City Hospital the boy was placed in the observation ward. His calls for cold Mississippi mud were numerous.

"I'll never touch a drop of that stuff again," he said to the Post-Dispatch. "Why, I feel as if someone had struck me on the head with a hammer. Gee, it's no fun, I tell you, to have that hot stuff in you. I never knew liquor caused such a feeling. I won't do a thing to the fellow who told me it was good for pain."

J. F. Royston, a tamale peddler, is a guest of Dr. Nietert. He believes his heart is gone and that an electric battery has taken its place.

John Francis has been in the habit of heating his cans by means of electricity. This keeps his indigestion friend, the tamale, "red hot."

He always held the can by the right hand and every night he says he could feel the subtle currents penetrating his anatomy. After a while his heart beat faster and then it ceased to make a noise. It was disappearing and the electricity had formed the substitute.

At the suggestion of friends Royston concluded to have the hospital authorities examine him and find out whether his funny feeling is a fact or an illusion. Science points to the latter.

BANKER'S SON KILLED IN A CAR

Carl Hellburn of Fort Worth Met Death on a Freight Train by a Heavy Casting Striking Him.

Carl Hellburn, 18 years old, who claimed to be a son of a banker of Fort Worth, Tex., met a horrible death in a freight car near Alton, Ill., Monday night.

He was asleep in the car, which was loaded with iron car parts. A heavy casting rolled on his head and killed him.

There were a number of tramps in the car, but none could do anything to save Hellburn. A sudden lurch of the car toppled the casting from its position on top of others and rolled it down on the boy.

The interior of the car was dark. The tramps heard Hellburn scream when the casting struck him. They went to his assistance. He was dead.

One of the tramps climbed to the roof of the car and made his way on top of the train to the engine.

He told the engineer what had occurred and the train was stopped at the next station, Lockhaven.

The tramps voluntarily remained there. They stated that they met Hellburn a week ago at Piedmont, Mo. Hellburn told them his father was a Fort Worth banker. He ran away from home one month ago. He said he had a brother Clyde in the Thirty-eighth Regiment of Volunteers.

CHAS. GALLOWAY IN CONCERT.

Organ Recital at Grand Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Every music lover in town is expected to attend the recital to be given Friday evening by Charles Galloway, the organ virtuoso, at the Grand Avenue Presbyterian Church. Galloway has been heard here but once in recital since his return from Europe and his programme for Friday is full of musical gems that are rarely attempted by any but the most finished artists. Galloway's success in Paris was phenomenal for so young a man and if he was appreciated in that greatest of all music centers, certainly he should receive attention here in his native city.

The recital will be free to all musicians, and before it is over a collection will be taken up for the benefit of a church in need of financial assistance.

BECAUSE SHE REFUSED HIM.

Albert Coleman Shot and Seriously Wounded Myrtle Hill.

Albert Coleman and Miss Myrtle Hill had been sweethearts for years. In Morgan street uppertendom circles they were much sought after.

Myrtle wore her hair like a Zulu queen and Albert was considered a prince of stylish dressers. At cakewalks and other functions of the colored folk they attracted attention and scored many victories as fancy dancers.

But another won Myrtle's affections and her regard for Coleman became indifferent. Albert noticed the change and he desired to hasten affairs by asking Myrtle to marry him.

With that intention he called at her home, Thirteenth and Morgan streets, Sunday night. She refused him. Albert was desperate. He reached for his razor, but quickly remembered he had loaned it to another. The Shakspearean scene continued a short while longer and then Albert whipped a revolver out of his pocket, exclaiming: "Now, will you be my wife?"

Myrtle's penknife wasn't near. Still she was brave and promptly answered: "I shall never be Mrs. Albert Coleman."

There was a lofty scorn in the dusky lady's voice that carried despair to Coleman's heart.

"You have destroyed my happiness," he said, aiming the pistol at her ankle.

His hand was nervous, and the two bullets which he fired entered Miss Hill's thigh.

She was taken to the hospital. Dr. Kane says she will recover.

Coleman has so far eluded the police. Myrtle forgives him, because she feels that in some measure she was responsible for the shooting, since, she affirms, when Albert couldn't have her he was naturally driven to do something desperate.

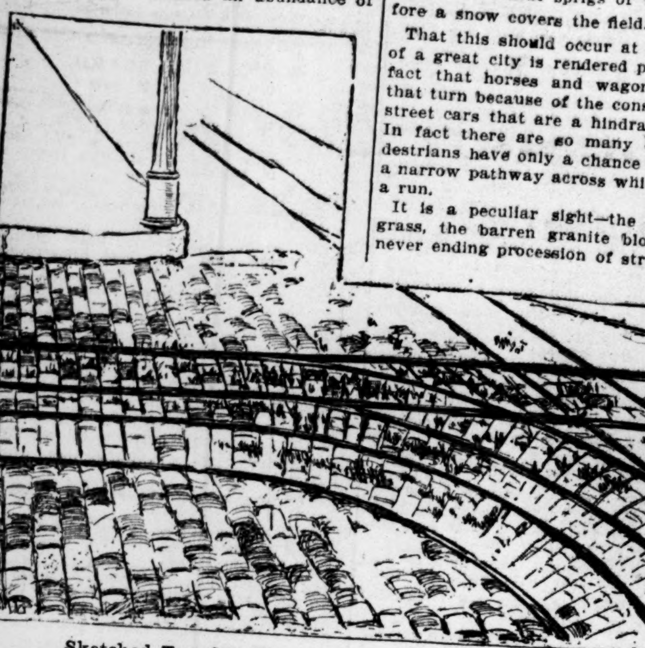
GRASS GROWING AT BUSY STREET CORNER.

Procession of Street Cars Prevents Horses From Turning the Corner and Hence the Grass Is Enabled to Grow.

The decidedly warm weather of the past three weeks has caused an abundance of grass to spring up between the street car rails at one of the busy corners, Sixth and Locust streets.



Sketched Tuesday Morning by a Post-Dispatch Artist.

The green blades have shot up from the granite paving blocks a distance of three or four inches and has almost the appearance of the first sprigs of wheat just before a snow covers the field.

That this should occur at a busy corner of a great city is rendered possible by the fact that horses and wagons never take that turn because of the constant round of street cars that are a hindrance to teams. In fact there are so many cars that pedestrians have only a chance to beat down a narrow pathway across which they go in a run.

It is a peculiar sight—the bright green grass, the barren granite blocks and the never ending procession of street cars.

DOWN AN ELEVATOR SHAFT

John J. Flynn Fell Twenty-five Feet, and Then Walked Fifteen Blocks to Keep an Engagement.

John J. Flynn fell 25 feet down an elevator shaft at the plant of the Forbes & Gibson Coffee Co., Monday afternoon, but his injuries were so slight that he walked 15 blocks away to keep an engagement, 10 minutes later.

Flynn was in the discharge of his duties when he stepped into the shaft, thinking the elevator was there to receive him. When he struck the basement floor he lay there for a minute. Then he jumped up and laughed at his narrow escape.

His scalp was broken, but it did not bleed enough to need the attention of a surgeon.

LOST HIS BALANCE AND FELL.

John McKenzie Will Die From a Fractured Skull.

An old man wended his way to the Salvation Army Barracks at 916 Market street Monday night. His step was unsteady, and it was evident he needed rest.

He started up the long flight of stairs with the price of a bed, a nickel, in his hand. He had often climbed the same stairway and sung hallelujahs with the good sisters of the army. He was nearing the top step when he suddenly lost his balance and fell backwards.

When picked up by a policeman a few minutes later he was unconscious. From papers in his pockets his name, John McKenzie, was learned.

He is now in the City Hospital. He has a compound fracture of the skull. Through [illegible] night he sank rapidly, and at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning the screen, which signifies the near approach of death, was placed around his cot.

Little is known of McKenzie, save that he was a laborer and frequented the Salvation Army headquarters. He is about 45 years old.

PASS QUESTION DISCUSSED.

Western Railroad Officials in Secret Session at the Southern.

SAYS NOTHING IS WRONG.

Charles Eissner of Denver Still Detained at Four Courts.

Charles Eissner and his wife, who were arrested at Union Station Monday night by Detectives Howard and Gallagher, are still held at the Four Courts. It is said they are wanted in Denver.

Eissner says he has done nothing criminal. He owned a restaurant there, he says, and he sold out. He owes some bills there and he expects to pay them. After selling out he concluded to come East for a few months for a rest.

THE REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE.

First Legal Sale on Its Floor to Be Held October 14.

The first legal sale to be held on the floor of the Real Estate Exchange will occur at noon, Oct. 14, when Mr. Festus J. Wade will, as special commissioner, offer to the highest bidder, a fine piece of railroad property, 85.6x135 feet, on the northwest corner of Theresa avenue and Bernard street.

The event finds its greatest significance in the fact that the efforts which the real estate agents have for years been making to establish the Real Estate Exchange in that position of local importance to which its merits entitle it, and which efforts have most earnestly found expression through the indefatigable president of the Exchange, Mr. Malcolm Macbeth, are about to receive recognition.

All agents know that the New York Real Estate Exchange was a great success so long as legal and auction sales were held on its floor; and that it failed, and had to close its doors only after these sales were held elsewhere. In St. Louis, the anachronism and barbarism of legal and foreclosure sales being held in the blinding storms and the inclement heat and cold of the open porch at the east front door of the Courthouse, are about to be terminated. The new law permits sales to be held in the roomy and comfortable rotunda of the Real Estate Exchange; and the eal estate agents will take pleasure in the inauguration of the new custom on the 14th of next month.

THE MARKETS.

MERCHANTS EXCHANGE, Oct. 24.

The large visible supply had the effect in the early part of to-day's session of so depressing the bulls that they lost the confidence which had marked them during yesterday's session.

The bears, taking advantage of this, were able to regain some of the lost ground, making the opening figure well below yesterday's close; later the bulls were more venturesome, and as a result made a few gains and continued to be quite troublesome during the entire session.

This opposition that the two factions offered each other made the session much more interesting in its early hours than it had been for some time.

The fact that neither side was able to make more than a small fraction's gain at a time showed how earnestly the biddding was being carried on.

The Weather—Unsettled, with probably showers to-night or Wednesday.

The barometer is highest off the Massachusetts coast and is also high over the extreme West. A trough of low pressure extends from Western Texas northeastward to Northern Michigan, and is moving eastward.

Light showers occurred over portions of Massachusetts, New York, Montana, Utah, Minnesota, Nebraska and Kansas.

The temperature has risen decidedly in the Upper Lake region and has fallen in Colorado and Wyoming. Elsewhere the changes were slight.

WHEAT.

The wire news was about evenly divided in the early part of to-day's session, but in spite of this there seemed to be a bearish influence at work which, if it were not for the determined resistance of the bull faction, might cause some serious results.

Yesterday's session throughout was bullish, and as a result at the first clang of the gong to-day the bears went into the pit resolved to regain the ground lost.

They bid, however, close to yesterday's close, and the opening showed but little loss, which for a time the bears were not able to increase.

The large visible supply was the direct cause of the low opening, but the small receipts at Northwestern grain centers, together with the receipts at the local market, and the stronger tendency of foreign markets, was enough news to offset the bearish opening.

The bears battled with all their strength, but by slow and small gains the market advanced until the opposition seemed to have dropped out of the market, and then the bulls lost their interest.

The traders who had earlier packed the pit to overflowing evidently had done as much as they desired, for they soon left the pit, and the market fell into the quiet and eventless groove that it has followed so long. After this the market showed little change. A few fluctuations did occur, but they were not of a character to have an exciting tendency on the trade, and though the pit for a moment, perhaps, would wake up, it soon lost the small interest that was stimulated.

Dec. opened at 70⅛c, a loss of ¼c since yesterday's close. The trade at this figure was small, and for a long period the market showed no change, although the pit was lowest in its bid and selling prices. Later the bulls began to exert all their strength, and the market responding to this influence, started on its advance; 70⅛@70¼c was the next price reached, but the market did not hesitate here, but went on to 70¼c, and then to 70¼@70⅜c.

The market, as it advanced, received no setbacks, the upward tendency was steady and determined, no opposition that was of a strong enough character for a moment to break the advance being offered.

After once starting the advance, the bulls were persistent in the attentions which they showered on this future; 70⅜c was reached, and then 70⅜@70½c. Here the bears, for the only time during the early part of the session, lost interest, and at the same time, as the opposition offered them fell off, the bulls fell off in the attention they were showing the market.

Receipts of wheat at Minneapolis and Duluth to-day were 798 cars, compared with 1402 cars same date last year. The bulls fell off in the attention they were showing the market.

The interest, however, was quickly revived again, and the jump continued, the market going to 70½c, and then to 70½@70⅝c, and later to 70⅝c.

Here trade for a short time was practically at a standstill, though there was a continual clamor of bids. With a renewed strength the advance continued to 70¾c, where the first setback that since the opening had been received was offered. The future fell to 70⅝c, but quickly rose again to 70⅝@70¾c, and then was back again at 70¾c.

Near the middle of the session the bears gained more control over the market than they had secured earlier. As a result the future fell to 70⅝c, and then to 70½@70⅝c, and finally reached 70½c.

May, while this tireless bidding was going on as regards the Dec. future, could not be expected to attract a large share of attention, but it was by no means neglected, though there were no large gains such as occurred in the other futures recorded.

May opened at 75⅜c, the first bid prior to the opening being 75¼c, which was the closing figure of yesterday's trade, the interest after this shown the future was in the way of bid and selling prices, one of the first bids being 75⅝c, which was refused.

Wm. A. Rooke's Morning Letter:

Cables are ⅛ higher for wheat. This is disappointing after the strong close on this side. An oversold condition was responsible for the advance, for the most part, in our opinion. Conditions are still unchanged, as we see them. A better demand for the cash property is the one thing needful to give us better prices.

London was ⅛d higher for wheat at the opening of to-day's session.

By Wire to J. W. Sanford.

William Goodwin of Buenos Ayres, an authority on Argentine grain statistics, estimates the exportable wheat surplus of the coming crop will be 70,000,000 bushels and the quantity of grain remaining over from the last crop about 16,000,000.

Receipts of wheat at primary points to-day were 1,193,932 bu, as compared with 1,695,000 bu same date last year.

Shipments, 253,092 bu, compared with 1,295,000 bu same date last year.

Receipts of wheat at St. Louis to-day were 35,735 bu, compared with 158,673 bu same date last year. Of these 1217 sacks and 33 cars were local.

CORN.

The market displayed great activity to-day and although none of the futures showed any great changes, the pit gave both of them a large share of its attention.

December opened at 30⅛c, being ⅛c below yesterday's close. The bears here made a small gain, forcing the future down to 30c, but they were not long able to hold a controlling position, the market quickly advancing to 30¼c and then to 30⅜c, but finally dropped back to 30¼c, where it seemed to have settled for good.

May opened at 31½c, yesterday's closing figure, and then fell back to 31⅜c and later rose to the opening figure, 31½c. Near the middle of the session 31⅝c was bid, but refused.

The openings of the foreign markets as regards corn were quite different. Liverpool opened ¼d lower, while London's opening was ⅛d higher than yesterday's close.

By wire to Arthur C. Petri:

We have had a pretty good advance in corn, and the export demand has let up for the moment, and there are over 9,000,000 more on ocean passage now than a year ago, so you can see the foreigner has supplied himself pretty liberally and it would be nothing strange if we would have a slack demand for a few weeks. We certainly have raised a pretty fair corn crop, and we will undoubtedly have some kind of a movement. I believe in taking profits on long corn, as we certainly will have a chance to buy it at some lower price later on. Corn might sell at 40c next summer, but do not believe it will right away. FRAZIER.

A Chicago wire said:

Corn is becoming the center of interest for speculators. The pit is full now each day, prices working up fast enough to keep its entire interest on edge. The West is evidently a believer in the coarse grain. The news from the big corn States is that the old stocks have been exhausted and of late the comment is mainly on disappointing corn husking results. Three or four prominent corn men out through Nebraska last week, on separate errands and not in company, brought back the same story as to Nebraska—that instead of the 250,000,000 bu promised by the Government, the State would not have over 200,000,000. Just now in the pit is the West against the East. Seaboard is decidedly bearish because of the high freights and because the shipping demand from the other side has paused. Most of the exporters here are of the same opinion. The local stocks in the public houses show for the week a decrease in corn of 797,000 bu. These local stocks in the public houses now include 4,787,000 corn.

Receipts of corn at primary points to-day were 654,520 bu, as compared with 532,000 bu same date last year. Shipments, 572,012 bu, compared with [illegible] bu same date last year.

Receipts of corn at St. Louis to-day were 61,600 bu, compared with 70,995 bu same date last year. Of these 48 cars were local, compared with 498 sacks and 50 cars same date last year.

OATS.

Almost unbroken quiet still reigned in the oats market; bid and selling prices were few as recorded, and little attention seemed to be drawn towards this cereal.

The futures, as they at no time during the past few days have attracted much attention, were not much better off to-day.

December was still almost entirely neglected, and what little interest was felt by the pit, was shown in its treatment of the May future.

May opened at 25½c, and after the opening was practically dead as far as the pit was interested in it.

The receipts in the local market still continued small, but yet much larger than last year's.

Receipts of oats at St. Louis to-day were 38,400 bu, compared with 18,050 bu same date last year. Of these 29 cars were local, compared with 10 sacks and 12 cars same date last year.

NEWS OF THE PIT.

By Wire to J. W. Sanford.

Gifford, O'Brien & Neafus, wheat traders, buying corn. Comstock selling. Pringle and commission houses took profits early and pit sold short. Don't look like selling off much.

Light receipts at Minneapolis are mainly due to poor condition of country roads and line. Elevators are holding their wheat back to make carrying charges.

Brokers bought wheat on opening and gave up. Powerson looks like acceptances.

Armour bought lot of Dec. corn this morning. The May acting like sale for turn at 33¼c.

Wheat steady to firm at put price. Trade local. Corn is firm, but there are a number of locals who will sell on any decline from present price, 3-¼c.

By wire to Arthur C. Petri:

The local longs sold corn freely at 33c and over.

The scalpers all got short on opening. Their offerings were absorbed by the bigger shorts. They are about covered now.

The bull side of corn is too unanimous. The market has had a 4c advance and cash demand is very dull. Country acceptances are larger to-day.

Shorts covered pretty freely yesterday and disappointing cables responsible for the lower opening.

Not a great deal of wheat offered for sale here this morning. Scalpers have been the best sellers so far.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Although the undertone in wheat to-day continued strong the market opened at a moderate decline owing to disappointing cables, Liverpool making but a feeble response to the rally here yesterday. There was little selling pressure, however, and the bullish sentiment soon began to assert itself. Outside buying orders were plentiful and continued light receipts and complaints of damage by drought to winter wheat forced shorts to cover. Competition was sharp for the limited offerings, and the price was bid up ⅝c before the demand was satisfied. Realizing caused a slight reaction, but the market for the most part remained buoyant and strong. December opened ¼c lower at 70⅛@70⅜c, advanced to 71⅛@71¼c, and reacted to 70⅞@71c. Chicago received 254 cars, 5 of which graded contract. Minneapolis and Duluth got 798, compared with 1402 for the same day a year ago.

Corn opened off a shade with wheat and on profit-taking, but later the market turned strong and the loss was fully recovered. General buying was encouraged by poor yields and small stocks in store. Receipts, 738 cars. December opened ⅛c lower at 31¼@31⅜c, declined to 31⅛c and advanced to 31¼@31⅜c.

Oats ruled dull but held steady, with other grains. Receipts, 422 cars. December ruled unchanged at 22⅝@22¾c.

Large hog receipts and lower prices at the yards weakened provisions early, but the loss was recovered on buying by packers. The advance in corn helped the market. January pork opened 5@7½c lower at $9.37½, and advanced to $9.40@9.42½; January lard, 2½@5c lower at $5.30@5.32½; January ribs opened 2½c lower at $4.90, declined to $4.87½ and advanced to $4.90@4.97½.

Wall Street.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The heaviness at the opening seemed to be in sympathy with depression in the London market, emphasized by weakness of some of the industrial specialties. Brooklyn Transit, Sugar, Anaconda and Detroit Gas lost from 1 to 1½. New York Central advanced ¾, but met heavy offerings and declined ½. Third Avenue gained a point.

Business quieted down while the downward tendency prevailed. Near midday activity was renewed and some of the stocks hardened sharply. Sales of stocks, 335,461 shares.

The bond market held generally firm.

There was a sharp contest between the speculative factors. The bears obtained the upper hand for a time. Their successes included a 2½ fall in American Tobacco, 3 in Malting preferred, and over a point in Pullman, Sugar and Brooklyn Transit. Extensive buying of the Leather issues then commenced, advancing them above 21 and 81 respectively. A number of railroad stocks made sharp recoveries, Burlington and Baltimore & Ohio preferred rising a point. New York Central continued active below last night's level.

COMPTROLLER LACKS POWER.

Pamphlet Issued by Authority to Show His Limitations.

Comptroller Sturgeon issued a pamphlet Tuesday containing the opinions of City Counselor Benjamin Schnurmacher, Associate City Counselor Charles Claflin Allen and ex-City Counselor William C. Marshall on the Comptroller's power to change the valuations of the Assessor or abate interest and penalties to tax bills.

The opinions have been printed and discussed before. The pamphlet is new. The purpose of the pamphlet is to explain to the public that the Comptroller has no power to alter the assessments or penalties imposed by the City Assessor.

CANADA'S LAST CLAIM.

MAKES CONCESSION ON THE ALASKAN BOUNDARY.

BUT WANTS A SEAPORT.

She Offers to Give Up Skagua and Dyea If She Gets Pyramid Harbor.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Associated Press is enabled to give authoritatively Canada's final proposition for a permanent settlement of the Alaskan dispute. It is very different from her former demands, and was delivered to United States Ambassador Choate by the Canadian Minister of Marine and Fisheries, Sir Louis Henry Davies, late the night before the latter sailed, and dispatched to-day to Washington by the officials of the United States Embassy.

It is as follows:

That the boundary line be arbitrated upon terms similar to those imposed by the United States and Great Britain over Venezuela, particularly those provisions making 50 years occupancy by either side conclusive evidence of title, occupancy of less than that period to be taken as equity allows under international law.

That, as a condition precedent to and absolutely preliminary to arbitration, Skagua and Dyea would be conceded to the United States without further claim if Canada received Pyramid Harbor.

In other words, Canada gives up much of the disputed gold country in return for a seaport, but stipulates that she must get the latter before she agrees to arbitrate the boundary line.

IOWA OFFICER IN DISGRACE

Capt. Burton Charged by His Fellows With Cowardice at the Attack on Calumpit.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24.—The Fifty-first Iowa Regiment is in camp at the Presidio. The citizens of San Francisco and the Montana troops in camp gave the returning fighters a warm reception.

It was learned that Capt. A. F. Burton of Company B had been forced to resign after the battle of Calumpit, officers of his company preferring charges of cowardice. It is said that he hid in a ditch until the firing ceased.

Lieutenant-Colonel Miller, in command at that attack, said:

"Afer the battle of Calumpit officers of Company B filed a communication with me which made the most serious charges against Capt. Burton. After an investigation, I decided that the best thing to do to quiet the whole affair was to get Burton to resign and leave the company. He agreed to do this when the charges of his company were shown him and forwarded his resignation."

SYNOD OF MISSOURI.

GATHERING OF STATE PRESBYTERIANS AT HANNIBAL.

MISSION COLLECTIONS GOOD.

Interesting Papers on Church Work Were Read During the Morning and Afternoon Sessions.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HANNIBAL, Mo., Oct. 24.—The synod of Missouri of the Presbyterian Churches convened in this city to-day with a large attendance. The synod represents 237 churches, 195 ministers and about 22,000 members, and includes the State of Missouri and part of Arkansas.

This is the first time in 23 years that the synod has met in Hannibal. There are 150 representatives, consisting of ministers and elders, present. Dr. Marshall is the field secretary and one of the ablest ministers in the synod. He stated that the churches in the synod last year gave for home missions $18,850 and for foreign missions $12,692.

After the opening of the session this morning the following topics were discussed: "The Holy Spirit in Relation to the Reviving of the Churches," Dr. Palmer of St. Louis; "The Need for a Revival in the Life of the Church," Dr. Scott of Carthage; "The Need of a Revival for the World About Us," Rev. Stanley Jewell of Butler; "Preparation for a Revival by the Pastor," Rev. E. W. Symonds of St. Joseph; "Preparation for a Revival by the People," Rev. Dr. War of Maryville.

In the afternoon the following papers were read: "Revivals in Scripture," Rev. J. B. Welty of Joplin; "Revivals in History," Dr. Ross Stephenson, McCormick Seminary, Chicago; "Revivals in the Passion of Souls," Dr. Leard of Springfield and S. F. Williamson of Parkville.

The synod will remain in session until Friday evening.

HOSPITAL AID NEEDED.

Chief Manila Surgeon Has Appealed to Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Surgeon-General Sternberg has received word from Col. Woodhall, chief surgeon at Manila, that he has at present 38 hospital stewards, 98 acting hospital stewards, 1041 privates of the hospital corps and that he requires 12 more stewards, 32 acting hospital stewards and 700 privates, in view of the increase of the army.

WILL GUARD THEIR PLANS.

Philippines Commission Report a Secret for Some Time.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Philippines Commission is expected to meet to-morrow. Prof. Worcester, the only absent member, is due to-night.

It is not expected that the recommendations of the commission as to the government of the islands will be made public at this time. The understanding is that the recommendations will be kept secret until Aguinaldo has surrendered. The demand upon Aguinaldo now is for unconditional surrender. It would be obviously impolitic to apprise Aguinaldo, pending his surrender, of any plans which this government may have for the future control of the islands.

LONG SUSTAINS WATSON.

The Commander-Taussig Incident Dismissed by the Department.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Navy Department has sustained Rear Admiral Watson in his contention with Commander E. D. Taussig of the Bennington. The junior officer did not carry out certain orders to the approval of the Admiral and he was relieved of his command.

DEWEY SEIZED THE GUNS.

Cannon at the Arsenal Were Loaded When the Army Came.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The story is current here that the navy has possession of the breech-blocks of the guns on Cavite. Shortly after the army took possession of the land forts overlooking Manila Bay, someone connected with the navy discovered that the large, finely built guns of 10 and 12-inch caliber were loaded ready for discharge, and, to create havoc among the naval ships toward which the guns were trained, it would only have been necessary for some careless person to have pulled the lanyards. This disconcerting news reached Admiral Dewey, who at once proceeded to the spot and formally took possession of the breech blocks of the guns. These were carried to the Olympia without delay, and later, when the Oregon appeared on the scene, were transferred to that ship, where they are now, so far as any one in Washington knows.

WOMAN AND MAN DEAD.

After Shooting Mrs. Hall Murray Gilbert Killed Himself.

PADUCAH, Ky., Oct. 24.—Murray Gilbert, a member of a prominent family, fatally shot Mrs. Janie Hall last night in the rear room of a saloon. He then shot himself in the head, dying instantly. The woman was shot in the right chest and died an hour later. No cause is known.

The woman's husband was killed about a year ago in a quarrel with a neighbor over her. Gilbert served as a member of the First Kentucky Regiment band during the late war.

HUNDHAUSEN GUILTY

MISSOURIAN CONVICTED OF COMPLICITY IN MURDER.

CRIME OCCURRED IN CHICAGO.

The Murderer, the Victim and the Accessory All Had Homes in Hermann, Mo.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Herman Hundhausen, aged 18 years, of Hermann, Mo., who has been on trial for complicity in the murder of Walter F. Koeller, Sept. 2, was sentenced to-day to 20 years in the penitentiary.

Hundhausen, Richard Honeck and the murdered boy were from the same town.

Honeck did the actual killing. He has pleaded guilty, and says the motive was that Koeller's father had been a party to the murder of Honeck's brother.

The three young men came from Missouri early in the fall. Hundhausen and Honeck were close friends and roomed together. On the night of Sept. 2 they went to Mrs. Alexander's boarding house at 880½ Fulton street and asked for Koeller. Mrs. Alexander showed them the way to the room. Honeck entered first and called Koeller's name. The latter was in bed. He arose and was in the act of lighting the gas when Honeck stabbed him with a dirk.

"I never told a living soul what I intended to do," said Honeck. "Hundhausen is innocent so far as a previous knowledge of the crime is concerned."

This is the voluntary statement of Honeck. The State proved that Hundhausen went to the house armed, and that he volunteered to shoulder one-half the blame for the act.

Hundhausen's attorney endeavored to prove that Honeck exercised an hypnotic influence over his client.

Koeller's father lives in Appleton, Mo. Hundhausen's father was for 12 years Circuit Clerk of Gasconade County.

ORDNANCE COMING ON.

First Supplies Shipped to St. Louis From Jefferson City.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 24.—Light Battery A and the First Regiment of Infantry of Missouri National Guard at St. Louis will get their complete equipments within the next few days. Adjutant-General Bell arrived this morning from his home in Fulton and began at once sending out the complete equipments to the St. Louis boys. The first consignment went out to-day over both the Missouri Pacific and Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroads.

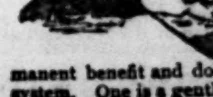
St. Louis is the first to get these equipments. The Second Regiment, with headquarters at Sedalia, will be the next to get equipments, and then the Third at Kansas City and the Fourth at St. Joseph as soon as they are reorganized.

The pursuit of pleasure is often as dangerous to life as the pursuit of "the bubble reputation even at the cannon's mouth." Late hours, the breathing of a vitiated atmosphere, rich foods, and irregular rest, must result in a depleted vitality. There is a feeling of languor, the appetite fails, sleep does not refresh, life loses its interest, and nervousness or hysteria may make life miserable.

The preservation of the healthful tone of the body depends chiefly on keeping the blood pure, and the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition in a condition of health. When any of the above mentioned symptoms appear the timely use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will restore the body to a healthy equipoise. It purifies the blood, nourishes the nerves, and restores the deranged stomach and its allied organs to a condition of sound health.

There is no alcohol, whisky or other stimulant contained in "Golden Medical Discovery."

"I was troubled with very frequent headaches often accompanied by severe vomiting," writes Miss Mary Bell Summerton, of San Diego, Duval Co., Texas. "Bowels were irregular and my stomach and liver seemed continually out of order. Often I could eat almost nothing for twenty-four hours at a time. I was entirely unfit for work, and my whole system run down. I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and did so with such satisfactory results that before finishing the third bottle I felt perfectly able to undertake the duties attending public school life. I most heartily advise those suffering with indigestion, and its attendant evils, to give this great medicine a fair trial."



Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse and regulate the stomach, liver and bowels. They produce permanent benefit and do not re-act on the system. One is a gentle laxative.

PINIONED ON PRONGS

JOSEPH MICHAEL THE VICTIM OF A PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

STRUCK BY A HEAVY MEAT HOOK

Dangerous Inujries Inflicted to the Man's Neck and Right Side.

Joseph Michael, a laborer, was the victim of a peculiar accident Monday afternoon while at work in an old ice chest in Louis Schaefer's meat stall in Union Market. A ponderous meat hook fell on him and two of its prongs were driven into his flesh—one into his right side and the other into his neck.

Several men were working with him at the time, but they were so horrified by his condition that they allowed him to stand for a full minute under his tortuous burden before they made any effort to lift it from him. When it was finally removed he was taken to the City Dispensary, where Dr. Vogel dressed his wounds. From there he was sent to his home at 3852 Fairfax avenue.

Both wounds are dangerous. The one in the side penetrates between the ribs and that in the neck is but a hair's breadth from the jugular vein. The hooks were covered with rust and his physician fears blood-poisoning may result.

The men who were working with Schaefer when he was injured say the same accident could not happen again once in a thousand times, even under the same circumstances.

"Such an accident is remarkable and I have never before heard of anything of the kind," said Proprietor Schaefer, Tuesday. "Michael happened to be in the right position and the hook happened to fall with the right poise. The slightest variation in either would have caused the hook to glance to the ground. Michael, assisted by several men, was removing some useless furniture from an ice chest, and among the articles to go was the hook. Ie weighed over 100 pounds and had five prongs. It was never used and was rusty. I was tired of looking at it.

"After the clasps which held it to the wall had been taken out, all the men but Michael jumped back to let it fall. He was slow and was still under it when the others let go. He saw it coming and tried to stop it. He only succeeded in throwing one end higher than the other. The high end entered his neck, while one on the lower end was driven into is side.

"The men who saw it didn't know what to do for several seconds, during which Michael begged for help. When their surprise was over they quickly released him from the prongs and sent him to the dispensary."

Gaseous Vaporings.

The many friends of Mr. David Fentress will be glad to learn that he will again make his home in St. Louis. He will be connected with Backus Gas Heater and Fixture Co., 1011 Olive street. This company is very fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Fentress, and Mr. Fentress is also fortunate in making this connection, as the Backus Heater Co. is very progressive and is constantly extending its field of operation. It is now the general distributing agent for the Welsbach Commercial Co. in the Southwest, as well as for the Consolidated Incandescent Light Co. of New York City. They are prepared to quote to the trade manufacturers' prices, f. o. b. St. Louis, on Welsbach lights and mantles, also on the Consol, Apollo, Victor, Ideal and Acme Brand of mantles.

Mr. T. M. Ambler, Manager of the Backus Gas Heater Co., states that it has been his ambition to make the Backus Building the St. Louis headquarters for good gas goods, and he certainly has succeeded. The Backus Gas Heaters are so well known and used in so many homes in St. Louis as to render mention of them superfluous. The unique plan of renting Backus Heaters for six dollars a year is still in force, and considering the present high and almost monthly increase in the price of coal, the Backus people ought to have more trouble in getting heaters to rent than in renting the heaters they now have.

Mr. Ambler also says that his company has the agency for the Monarch Water Heater, a wonderful heater, which he thinks solves the hot water problem, because it delivers hot water under pressure to any part of the building. The mere act of turning on the water ignites the gas, and as soon as the water stops running gas ceases to burn. It is economical and will heat one gallon of water with one foot of gas.

Mr. Ben Graham's new residence, on Lindell boulevard, is being fitted up with one of these heaters; also, several barber shops and bathhouses. With the genuine Welsbach light selling for one dollar, mantles for a quarter, gas stoves for $2.00 down and $1.00 a month, Backus Heaters renting for $6.00 a year, it is not at all strange that the Backus Heater Co. find it hard to get goods fast enough to supply the demand. They solicit the trade of the dealers, the agents, and the consumers, to all of whom they offer the best value for the least amount of money.

FILTRATION OF CITY WATER.

Board of Health Declares Itself in Favor of Some Provision.

Health Commissioner Starkloff presented a resolution at the meeting of the Board of Health Monday providing for the filtering of city water. The resolution was adopted. It does not indicate the method of filtration the board regards as advisable to adopt, that being a subject the Board of Public Improvements will be left to decide.

Water Commissioner Flad says he is ready to act at once on the filtering proposition by beginning a series of experiments to ascertain what method would give the best results in St. Louis.

MRS. SIBLEY PAID SHORTAGE.

Deficiency in the Doctor's Account Made Good by His Wife.

The indebtedness of Dr. John T. Sibley to the Board of Trustees of the Missouri School for the Blind has been paid. On Saturday Mrs. Sibley turned over to the board a check for $783.29, the amount found to be due on her husband's account. The whereabouts of Dr. Sibley is still unknown to the board. The committee appointed to determine Dr. Sibley's indebtedness called upon his wife some time ago and asked her to settle it. The Board of Trustees decided to accept her offer. A warrant for the arrest of Dr. Sibley is still in the hands of the sheriff.

Funeral of John A. King.

The funeral of John A. King, late member of the House of Delegates from the Fifteenth Ward, will be held at the residence of his parents at 3209 Newstead avenue at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The ritual of the Catholic Church will be read. Interment will be at St. Peter's Cemetery. There will be no services at the church. It is probable that members of the House of Delegates will act as pall bearers.

MISSIONARY COUNCIL.

EPISCOPAL BISHOPS, CLERGY AND LAITY IN SESSION.

HOUSE OF BISHOPS TO MEET.

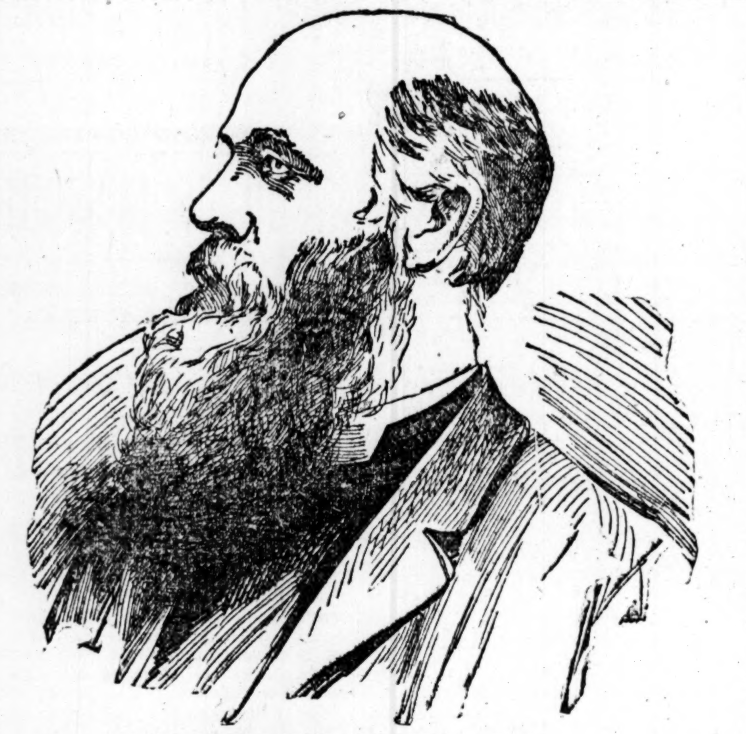
Bishop Tuttle Delivered the Address of Welcome to Which Bishop Satterlee Responded.

The meeting of the Missionary Council of the Episcopal Church began Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock in Christ Church Cathedral. There was a large gathering of clergy and laity and about 25 members of the House of Bishops in the chancel.

The council was opened with an elaborate service, then Bishop Thomas Underwood Dudley of Kentucky delivered the sermon. Holy communion followed.

Directly after the communion service Bishop Tuttle of Missouri welcomed the visiting bishops and delegates. He spoke of the pleasure it gave the people of St. Louis to entertain visitors and assured them they were welcome to remain as long as they chose.

Bishop Satterlee of Washington, D. C., responded on behalf of the visitors in an appropriate speech. Then the council took a recess until 2:30 o'clock for luncheon at the Planters' Hotel.



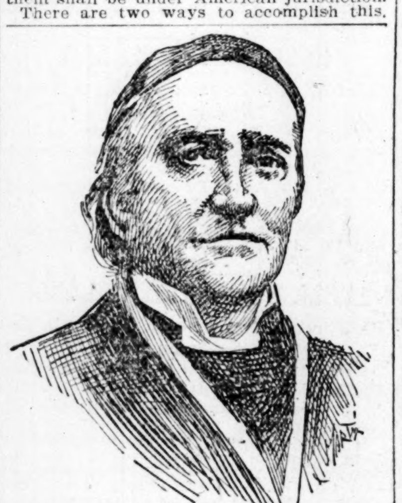
BISHOP TUTTLE OF ST. LOUIS.

The afternoon session of the council was held in St. Peter's Church, at Spring avenue and Delmar boulevard. Reports were heard and the routine business of the council was pushed rapidly.

The House of Bishops will hold a meeting Thursday afternoon for the purpose of considering the question of a bishop to Japan and also to decide what to do about bishops to Porto Rico and the Hawaiian Islands.

At present there is an Episcopal bishop at Honolulu, but he belongs to the English church. In order to decide how the church in the islands shall be brought under the jurisdiction of the American church there will have to be some diplomatic correspondence with the authorities of the English church. Since the islands have become a part of the United States it is conceded to be only proper that the churches in them shall be under American jurisdiction.

There are two ways to accomplish this.



BISHOP WHIPPLE OF MINNESOTA.

One is for the English bishop now there to come under the spiritual jurisdiction of the American church and the other is for him to resign and an American bishop be appointed.

As for Porto Rico it is almost certain a bishop will be appointed there. There is now only one Episcopal church in Porto Rico, that is at Ponce, and it is under the jurisdiction of the English at Antigua.

Bishop Tuttle said Tuesday: "It is not likely that any other subjects than these will be discussed at the meeting of the House of Bishops. The House cannot pass on anything except the business it is assembled for. New canons, such as one on marriage and divorce, can only be promulgated at regular sessions of the church at which the clergy and the lay members are represented as well as the bishops."

Bishop Clark of Rhode Island is the senior bishop of the American Ccurch, but he is not here, and Bishop Whipple of Minnesota, being next in point of seniority, will preside over the House of Bishops.

The Missionary Council is presided over by Bishop Doane of Albany, who is the regular chairman of the church's councils. The necessity of a chairman to preside over these meetings arises from the fact that the senior bishop, who by virtue of his senority is the natural chairman, is always a very old man, is frequently not able physically to perform the duties of that position.

Bishop Tuttle is entertaining Bishop Whittaker of Pennsylvania and Bishop Gilbert of Minnesota at his residence, 2727 West Chestnut street.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

VIOLA ALLEN.

Give we our tribute unto one whose art—
  Consumate art, in that 'tis art concealed
  In naturalness—has so to us revealed
Things best in stageland; things that stand apart
From others' and are hers alone. Her part
  She does with gentleness and skill; her field—
  A broad one—well she fills; but we have sealed
Her with approval from both mind and heart,
  Because she is a woman through it all;
    One, too, with just the loves and doubts and fears
    That make her sex. And in her work, their play,
  Across its warp and woof's continual.—
    So we in plaudits, in our cheers and tears,
    To Viola Allen, woman, homage pay.
WILLIAM HAMILTON CLINE.

Under the name of "The Christian," Hall Caine wrote a book, some time ago. It was received with varying emotions. To some it was nonsense, even; to others it was a work of stupendous merit. It caused all manner of discussion, and it sold enormously.

Then, from this book, Hall Caine wrote a play. The same characters reappeared; many of the situations of the book were placed on the stage, and others were hinted at. The girl, Glory Quayle of the Isle of Man, and John Storm, with his ideas of what the world needs as a religious leader to-day, were kept in remarkable fidelity, so far as their traits and characteristics were concerned, and most of the action, as it centered around them in the book, still did in the play.

But in several important points the play and the book differ radically. This is especially noticeable in the ending. Some of the strongest scenes of the novel—notably the one at the race course—are omitted from the play. The characters are drawn with keener lines in the stage work, and their individuality is more determinate. There is not the clouded, rather doubtful impression of them remaining with one, that one feels when closing the long volume. In fact, to put it briefly, Caine has taken his book and made it into a play, greatly to its improvement.

This play, "The Christian," is not the best nor the strongest ever written. In fact, it is decidedly melodramatic at times, and it borders on the ranting that one expects in the lower-class playhouses, at other times. But in witnessing it, one forgets all that in the superb acting, which makes of the most strained situation a natural episode. The great mob is a striking example of this. And the scene between Glory and John Storm, in Glory's apartments, is another. Not once does the melodramatic, tense as it is, dominate; the characters, as played, are too true to life.

Hall Caine has made a better play than he did a novel. He improved upon himself—and therefore he deserves great praise, for that is all too seldom done.

If "The Christian" lived for no other purpose than to introduce to the world Miss Viola Allen as a star, it had not lived in vain. To be honest, it is doubtful if it will live, beyond her stay in it. But even if that be its term of existence, it will not have been written for nothing. So let the author congratulate himself; he hath done a noble deed. He hath given us a new star, and an almost ideal one.

First and foremost—dominating all—Viola Allen, star, is a woman. In all the scenes of this long drama, she is the embodiment of those finer emotions that go to make her sex both fascinating and inexplicable. As we coarser-fibered men watched her play of features and actions Monday night, as she ran the scale of feeling, from grave to gay, from triumph in her own success to utter despair at her loss of the ideal friendship of Drake; from the wild elation at winning John Storm over her own heart, to the almost instant renunciation of her soul's treasure—ah, who but a woman, a real woman, could understand and appreciate?

Viola Allen's interpretation of the role of Glory Quayle is one long poem, in which all the rhyme and all the rhythm are tuned to a single key. It is a paen of praise to all the goodness of her sex, a plea to her stronger brother for her own sisterhood. It is as beautiful as renunciation always is in woman; contrastively it is as strong as a woman always is when for love she sweeps aside the traditions of ages and says: "Here I am; I love you. Take me." Beautiful it is, in all its complexity; daring in its naturalness; sweet in its alluring qualities; perfect in its portrayal. In all that long play, this one thing stands out: Viola Allen, woman.

In writing of "The Christian," one must necessarily be episodical. The drama is too long, both for the stage and for intelligent review in these columns, in its entirety. But there are some things about it that must be covered. There is the prologue. It is necessary—more's the pity. Glory's entrance is the one most effective part of it. John Storm's speech to his father is stagey—but therein lies its perfect, for it is just such a speech as an enthusiastic young fanatic would make, under those circumstances.

The first act, in the music hall, shows another piece of art—the introduction of the other singers, and their contrast with the fresh youth and unspoiled naturalness of Glory. They are faded stage beauties—and in them one sees the prophecy of the future for Glory, in that atmosphere. Glory's quick loss of all her ideal conceptions of Drake, when he kisses her, is a wonderful piece of work. Like many others, it is tense but not overdrawn.

There is the scene in John Storm's church. Glory goes there, after the Drake episode, to join Storm. She is dissuaded, and she crushes her heart before the audience as plainly as if she held it in her hand, when Storm pleads for her. Every woman does that at some time in her life, or would, if it were necessary. It is in them. Glory Quayle showed that, as in a picture.

The mob rushed in. It is a mob the like of which, for naturalness, was never seen on stage before. And every face in it is different. Storm holds it back by his personality. And again, though it is melodrama of the purest type, not once does the audience see that feature of it. The fidelity to nature in every move is absolute.

And then, there is the scene between John Storm and Glory, in her apartments. She takes down her hair and loosens her collar, to show to him, as he is declaring his purpose of killing her in his fanaticism, that she is the same Manx girl that he always knew. One false note, one strained move, and this most wonderful scene would have become a farce. But—it did not.

But why go on? It is but to paint the lily.

* * * * * * *

As to the characters, they are well taken. Robert Drouet as John Storm is beyond cavil. In not one respect is his acting open to carping criticism. Every actor fails to put himself in accord with all his listeners—for few look at a role in the same way. But in Drouet's interpretation of Storm as he knows him—there could be no improvement.

Glory and Storm are "The Christian." The others are figurantes—necessary in stage pictures, and taking their little burden with all the possibilities it offers. In that, they do well. That is all they are required to do. The stage settings are all that could be desired. The atmosphere, in the church scenes, is held perfectly. The mob, as has been said—but it will bear repetition—is wonderful. Monday night's audience filled the Olympic from orchestra to the last gallery row. It was a great night, even in the history of that historic theater.

* * * * * * *

But through it all remains one picture—Viola Allen, woman. Perfect as a cameo, dainty as a miniature, beautiful as a canvas by Reynolds—Viola Allen, woman.

Chickens and Waffles.—The Ladies' Aid Society of Tower Grove M. E. Church, near the corner of Kentucky and New Manchester, 1117 Kentucky avenue, will give a chicken and waffle supper at the church next Thursday evening from 6 to 9 o'clock.

[LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 94,398]

"I am so grateful to you for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me that I feel as though I must tell about it. A year ago I was taken very sick. Doctors could do me no good only to deaden the pain which I had almost constantly. I got some of your Compound and took one bottle and received benefit from it at once. I have taken it ever since and now have no backache, no pain in my side and my stomach and bowels are perfectly well. I can honestly say that there is nothing like it. If I could only tell every woman how much good your medicine has done me, they would surely try it."—MARTHA M. KING, NORTH ATTLEBORO, MASS.

Women Would Surely Try Mrs. Pinkham's Medicine If They Only Knew, Says Mrs. King

The way women trifle with health shows a degree of indifference that is past understanding. Happiness and usefulness depend on physical health; so does a good disposition. Disease makes women nervous, irritable and snappish. The very effort of ailing women to be good-natured makes them nervous. Write to Mrs. Pinkham, she will help you to health and happiness.

It costs nothing to get Mrs. Pinkham's advice. Her address is Lynn, Mass.

GIRLS' FRIENDLY SOCIETY.

Miss Paddock of New York Spoke at St. Peter's Church.

A meeting for the purpose of increasing interest in the Girls' Friendly Society was held at St. Peter's Church (Episcopal) Monday night.

Miss Paddock of New York told the large and sympathetic audience about the society, of which she is the President. It has a membership of more than 300,000 persons, of whom some 23,000 are in America. Its purpose is to aid in missionary work.

Rt. Rev. H. Y. Satterlee, Bishop of Washington, and Bishop Hall of Vermont spoke in terms of warm praise of the society. Bishop Tuttle prayed, and after the exercises a collection was taken up for the society.

Progressive Euchre.—The Missouri Woman's State Press Association will give a euchre Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 25, at 2 o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. Mary Holloway, 4136 Delmar boulevard.

ITCHING LIMBS

For Three Years. Nights Itching and Burning Terrible.

Wife Suggests CUTICURA. Uses it. Presto! What a Change.

Feels Like Kicking Doctors for Three Years' Suffering.

The itching and burning I suffered in my feet and limbs for three years were terrible. At night they were worse, and would keep me awake a greater part of the night. I consulted doctor after doctor, as I was travelling on the road most of my time, also one of our city doctors. None of the doctors knew what the trouble was. I got a lot of the different samples of the medicines I had been using. I found them of so many different kinds, that I concluded I would have to go to a Cincinnati hospital before I would get relief. I had frequently been urged to try CUTICURA REMEDIES, but I had no faith in them. My wife finally prevailed upon me to try them. Presto! What a change. I am now cured, and it is a permanent cure. I feel like kicking some doctor or myself for suffering three years when I could have used CUTICURA remedies.

BABY'S FACE SOLID SORE

My little nephew, John Staunton, was afflicted with the worst sores I ever saw all over his body. His head and face at times were a solid scab and he suffered dreadfully. He was a pitiable sight. His father used all the remedies that he heard of, and doctored with all the doctors. He wore a tar cap, also, which did no good, but got no relief until he used the CUTICURA (ointment) and CUTICURA SOAP. Now he is a clean, healthy child.

DON'T IT STAND TO REASON

That a Range with its oven of heavy steel, thoroughly riveted to malleable iron frames, and these frames in turn riveted to the heavy steel body of the range, and flues lined with pure asbestos board ¼ of an inch thick, will do its work in half the time and with half the fuel?

DEATH OF REV. THOMAS ZELLER

He Was a Novitiate of the Order of Redemptorist Fathers.

Rev. Father Thomas Zeller, assistant director of St. Joseph's College, and a novitiate of the Order of Redemptorist Fathers, died at Denver, Colo., Sunday.

Father Zeller caught cold while in Chicago in August and it settled on his lungs. Early in September he went to Denver, hoping to get relief from the climate. Stomach trouble attacked him and, in conjunction with the disease of the lungs, proved too much for him.

The remains will be brought to St. Louis and interred in the private cemetery of the Redemptorist order. The dead priest was born in Chicago in 1867 and educated for the priesthood in Kansas City. He was a brilliant scholar and one of the finest linguists in Missouri.

Ill-Health Prevents His Further Stay With the Army.

Capt. O. F. Guthrie will return to his home in St. Louis, his ill health preventing his going to the front with the Forty-fourth Volunteers. He is now at the Fort Leavenworth Hospital recovering slowly from lung troubles. A board was about to examine Capt. Guthrie on his physical ability for further active service, when he announced that it was not desired; that he had concluded to retire.

Capt. Guthrie is very popular with the enlisted men of the regiment, and they all desired to have him go with them to the Philippines.
